W. R. JENKINS DIES SUDDENLY

Prominent Citizen of Bellefonte Called Away

AFTER A BRIEF ILLNESS

He was Engaged in the Iron Industry for Many Years and Was Inventor of Numerous Devices

NEWS WAS A SHOCK TO HIS FRIENDS

The news of the death of W. R. Jenkins on Thursday evening was a shock to the citizens of Bellefonte. Coming so suddenly as it did it hardly seemed possible that one who had been about most of the day could have passed away. Mr. Jenkins had been on the streets in the forenoon and conversed with some of his friends. He had not complained of being ill until in the afternoon when he was seized with an attack of indigestion. From three o'clock on, his illness became more serious and a few minutes after six o'clock his earthly life ended.

William Rhys Jenkins was a native of Wales and was born Feb. 20, 1844, making his age about 64 years. In 1852, when he was yet a mere boy his parents, Wm. R. and Elizabeth Jenkins came to America in quest of the many opportunities this country afforded. After being here a year they decided to locate at Howard where his father secured an interest in the iron works. There he was educated in the public schools and worked with his father at the rolling mill Later he was appren iced at the machine shope of Todd and Duncan in Bellefonte where he learned the machinist trade.

In 1873 he went to Milton where his father and himself and brother organized and operated the Milton Iron company. After being there a short time he was called to Williamsport by the Valentine and Anderson Co., who employed him on account of his ability for the manufacture of iron and knowledge of the business in general, and of which firm he became a member.

In 1879 he came to Bellefonte and in company with J. H. Lingle bought the interests of Mr. Todd of the firm of Todd and Duncan, and forming the partnership known as W. P. Duncan & Co. In 1888 Mr. Duncan retired from the firm which then became Jenkins & Lingle. In 1889 Mr. Jenkins sold his interests to J. H. Lingle the present owner and took charge of the Howard Iron Works, which he has been operating since that time.

That Mr. Jenkins was a genius in the iron business is proven by the many inventions, discoveries, and improvements in many lines of this business. His first large adventure in the line of setting up machinery was at the Bellefonte Iron company's works which he did successfully. Being a close student of the nature of iron and always on the lookout for any improvement that could be made to any piece of machinery he worked out several inventions of usefulness. He was the original inventor of the power hammer and the continuous rolling mill, both of which inventions have came to great use in the iron industry. Among other inventions were a water wheel, low water alarm, coal oil burner, rake, hoe, clevis and ice creeper, the latter being the most recent. In connection with Willard Hall the plan of constructing the auto-buggy was successfully worked out. Mr. Jenkin's rake, clevis and hoe were three of the principle articles of manufacture at the Howard Iron works, the rake being one of the most substantial on the market today, shipments of which are made to all parts of the world. A patent shovel was also manufactured at the Howard works, but this patent being sold the manufacture was discontinued.

The deceased was a member of the Bellefonte Lodge No. 268 F. A. M. and also of the Chapter and Commandery.

Mr. Jenkins was twice married, his first wife being Miss Elizabeth Garner, who died a number of years ago. Of the first marriage one son Harry, of Bellefonte, survives. His second wife was Miss Catherine Stott, who survives him with one daughter Dorothy. One brother John, of Milton, and one sister Mrs. Dr. E. S. Dorworth, of Bellefonte, also survive.

Funeral services were conducted from the late home Monday morning at ten o'clock. Three ministers, Rev. J. Allison Platts, William Laurie and Ambrose Schmidt participated in the services. A large delegation of the Masonic order attended the funeral and paid their respects to the departed brother. After the services at the house the funeral cortege proceeded to the Union cemetery where the Masonic services were conducted by Worshipful Master Quigley of the Bellefonte lodge. Rev. James B. Stein pronounced the Masonic benediction.

Medical Society Anniversary.

The Centre County Medical Society celebrated their 82nd anniversary in Bellefonte Tuesday. There was an unusual full attendance and for a day meeting more interest than could have been expected.

Dr. Horace G. McCormick of Williamsport gave an address on pneumonia which was mastered in a most elegant manner. Dr. William S. Roos of Altoona gave a most interesting address on organization movements as beneficial to the physician and public.

The banquet at the Brockerhoff was another feature in which the best of friendship was manifested. The society entertained as guests besides the above-named speakers:

Dr. Benjamin H. Detweiler, Williamsport; Dr. Frances P. Ball; Lock Haven; Dr. Saylor J. McGhee, Mill Hall; Dr. M. A. Kirk, Bellefonte; Dr. Samuel C. Stewart, Clearfield; Dr. S. S. McCormick, Hublersburg; Dr. J. W. Neff, Snow Shoe.

There is a strong sentiment among the members to hold their next annual meeting in the evening so that we may have more time for the programme and also at the banquet.

Death of Prominent Coburn Citizen.

One of Penn township's most prominent citizens died Sunday night, April 5th when Andrew Harter of Coburn, passed away. He took sick at the close of the last term of court which he attended as a juror, and gradually grew worse until death came. He was aged about seventy years.

Three sons—Dr. Al. Harter, of Maytown, Andrew Harter, of Altoona, and James E. Harter of Coburn, survive, as does also does his wife.

Mr. Harter was the president of the Millheim Banking Company; one of foremost members of the Lutheran church and an uncompromising Democrat.

Interment was made Wednesday morning April 8th.

Death at Unionville

Clifford Calhoun, who resided with his parents near Unionville, died at his home Monday evening at 9 o'clock. He had been ill for some time but we were unable to learn what his illness was. The young man's death occurred on the 35th anniversary of his birth.

While assisting with home work he had been a student of plant life and had become quite prominent as a florist, having been employed in Bellefonte in the laying out of lawns and gardens. He was a member of the Methodist church at Unionville.

Surviving him are his parents Mr. and Mrs. Calhoun, and two brothers George and Roy. The funeral services were held at the late home Thursday.

Heverly—Strunk.

At the parsonage of the United Evangelical church of this place, Mr. James Orvis Heverly and Miss Mabel Strunk, both of Howard, were united in the holy bonds of matrimony Saturday evening April 11, by Rev. J. F. Howet.

BATTLE WITH STATE POLICE

Troopers are Stoned and Mobed by Rioters at Chester

SITUATION IS SERIOUS

Trolley Strikers Cause Trouble—Claim There was no Need of Calling Coustabulary

PROTECTION FOR STRIKE BREAKERS

Chester, Pa., April 14.—A strike of the conductors, motormen and other employes of the Chester Traction company, followed by the importation of about 150 strike breakers and the summoning of a detachment of the state constabulary to assist the local police in preventing any violence, precipitated a series of clashes between the strikers and state police here Monday, which threatened to end seriously.

The state police, whom the strikers say were not needed on the scene, were stoned and mobbed by the strikers and several officers and civilians were hurt, though none dangerously, The events of the day have aroused the entire populace, and the town was practically under martial law Monday night, with all the saloons closed and the street car barns and other property of the traction company under guard.

The trouble started when the strikers, with a lot of sympathizers, prepared to stop the running of any cars by strike breakers. The first car out of the barn was stoned by the strikers and every window in it was broken. This absolutely tied up every line of cars in Chester, including the southwestern trolley line to Philadelphia. The strikers congregated near the trolley barns, on Edgemont avenue, determined not to let the strike breakers, who they said were sheltered in the barns, operate any cars. While the strikers held themselves in readiness to prevent the operation of cars, a detachment of twenty state police, in command of Captain Groome, came upon the scene. Their appearance apparently aroused the ire of the strikers and the officers were stoned and rushed by the mob. Lieutenant Charles Feurstein was struck on the back of the head with a stone and rendered unconscious, but he was not dangerously hurt. His co-workers came to his rescue and the strikers and their friends were driven back.

The strikers declared there was no necessity for calling out the constabulary and the local police, it was said, could cope with the situation. The constabulary members showed a dispatch which they said authorized their presence and determined to preserve order.

EMMA BLANCHE STRAUB

Miss Emma Blanche Straub died at the home of her brother Elmer E. Straub at the Sunnyside farm near Bellefonte at 2:45 o'clock Thursday morning. Miss Straub had been in ill health for over a year, being a sufferer from that dreaded disease consumption. She had been making her home with her brother for some time, and was able to be about up till about three weeks ago.

The deceased was born near Bellefonte on Mar 27, 1866 and has resided in Bellefonte and vicinity all her life time She was a member of the Bellefonte Methodist church and consistent in her faith. During her prolonged illness she found comfort in her Saviour and died trusting in him. Miss Straub had a large number of friends in Bellefonte who were grieved to hear of her death. Two brothers mourn the death of their departed sister. They are Milton E., and Elmer E. Straub both of Bellefonte.

The funeral was held Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home of Elmer E. Straub at the Sunnyside farm. Rev. James B. Stein conducted the services and interment was made in the Union cemetery.

Married.

At the United Brethren parsonage Bellefonte Pa., April 1st 1908, by Rev. D. Barshinger Mr. Walter A. Pifer of Mill Hall and Miss Maude L. Stover of Lemar, Pa.

PRIMARY ELECTION RETURNS

Both Parties Manifest Much Interest in Saturday's Election Outcome

Not for some time has as much interest been taken in local politics as was manifested in Saturday's primaries. The consummation of the strenuous campaigning stirred up the voters throughout the county and a good vote was polled in most precincts. The contest was interesting up to the last minute and the returns were awaited with great anxiety. Of course there were some surprises. Lack space and time to compile the complete returns for the county but we give the vote in Bellefonte by wards.

On account of an error in the sealing of the election returns made by the boards in several precincts the commissioners have so far been unable to compile the official returns. The returns were more difficult to obtain than at the regular elections and this mistake has greatly impeded the work of compilation. We had intended to give the official vote in this issue but it could not be obtained in time. As the count stood the following candidates are conceded the nomination for the various county offices.

DEMOCRATIC.

Sheriff; F. F. Smith, Rush twp.

In some instances the vote is very close and the precincts yet to be added may change several of the nominations as given above.

TRESSPASSING ON RAILROADS

Pennsy Will Adopt Vigorous Measures to Abate Nuisance

MANY PEOPLE KILLED

State Commissioners Are Agitating the Subject With a View to its Abolishment

LOSSES FROM THEFTS ARE HEAVY

Some idea of the seriousness of the problem of dealing with trespassers on a railroad is to be gathered from the fact that the completed records, now compiled, show that 809 men were killed or died from injuries received while in the act of trespassing on the line of the Pennsylvania railroad system during the year 1907. These cases of trespass are not only a source of expense to the railroad but it is felt that common humanity should prompt the most thorough measures to eliminate this evil and danger as rapidly as possible. If these men infest the company's tracks and yards in such numbers, they are certain to be killed or injured, no matter how careful the trainmen may be. Yet they have no business either as passengers or employees which requires them to be in the way of trains.

So important has this matter become that the New York and Chicago General Managers association have taken it up. Officers of these associations estimate that more than half the ten thousand people killed last year on American railroads were trespassers. Some of the state railroad commissions are also agitating this important matter of discussion before the next annual meeting of all the state railroad commissions.

How extensive this evil is at the present time will also appear in the fact that 4,156 arrests for trespassing and illegal train riding were made on the right of way of the Pennsylvania railroad last year. During the same period, 466 men were arrested for larceny. Larceny, of course, is an extreme form of trespass, and the trespasser very frequently develops into a thief. What the Pennsylvania railroad suffered from larceny in 1907 is to be seen in the fact that the company paid out during the year $436,096 in claims for losses which were traced to thefts. This, though but an infinitesimal proportion of the hundreds of millions of dollars worth of shipments handled nevertheless represents, in itself, an item of serious importance to the company, and constitutes another reason why the railroad feels justified in making an appeal for public support in ridding itself of trespassers.

Licensed as Local Preacher.

At the first quarterly conference of the Methodist church Saturday evening, at the request of the official board, C. C Shuey, one of the leading members of the church, was granted a license as local preacher by the presiding elder. Mr. Shuey has been prominently identified in all the work of the church and affiliated societies for many years and has served the church officially in nearly every station. He has always been a leader and hard worker and his acts of mercy are known throughout the community and he has frequently ministered to the needy in nearby towns.

Mr. Shuey is a very fluent speaker and an excellent Bible student. At the Sunday morning service Rev. Stein made the announcement of Mr. Shuey having been licensed and called him to the pulpit. He then made a brief address and at the close of the services received the congratulations of the large congregation. Mr. Shuey has the best wishes of the membership of the church and his many friends in town for a useful life and successful ministry.

Tin Mills All Running.

For the first time in two years all the union mills mills of the American Sheet and Tin Plate company, 131 in all, are working this week, as follows: Fifty at New Castle, Pa., twenty at Sharon, Pa. twenty-eight at Ellwood, Ind., twenty-three at Martin's Ferry, Ohio and ten in Wheeling. This is more union mills at work for the trust now than since 1905, when they had six mills working at Niles, Ohio, which are to be dismantled according to plans.

DRANK CARBOLIC ACID.

Miss Minnie Clark Died from Effects of the Strong Poison.

Despondent and weary of life Minnie, a daughter of John and Elizabeth (deceased) Clark, drank carbolic acid Thursday forenoon with fatal results. The young lady, whose home is in Bush's Addition, was in town earlier in the morning and upon her return home told her sister she was going to Fillmore to visit her half-sister Mrs. Frye. She then went up stairs and had changed her waist as if preparing for the proposed visit. Several paperhangers were working in an adjoining room and upon learning that something was wrong called to the members of the family down stairs. She seemed to be in a strange spasm and when one of them detected the order of the acid it was surmised that she had drink of the poison.

Drs. Locke and Harris were summoned and did all in their power to relieve her sufferings and save her life. Her condition gradually grew worse and about 4 o'clock she was removed to the hospital All efforts toward the saving of her life were futile and she died about 7 o'clock.

Minnie Minerva Clark was born in Marion township on June 16, 1888, making her age 19 years, 9 months and 25 days. Her father has resided in Bellefonte for some time.

Before drinking of the poison she wrote a brief note naming her pall bearers, the undertaker she wanted, hymns to be sung and her pastor to conduct the services. Closing with a good bye and a few words to the family she folded the note and placed it in her waist.

Surviving are her father and two sisters Della and Elizabeth. The following half brothers and sisters also survive: Mrs. Mary Gordon of Bellefonte, Mrs. Maggie Frye of Fillmore, Mrs. Sadie Walters of Honserville, Wm. Clark of Clearfield, Walter Clark of DuBois and Charles Lose of Bellefonte.

Funeral services were conducted from the house Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, Rev. Barry of the Lutheran church officiating. Interment was made in the Lutheran cemetery at Pleasant Gap.

Y. M. C. A. Exhibition.

Any one who say the exhibition in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium Tuesday evening would not be surprsed if the boys organized a circus and went on the road judging from the difficult acrobatic stunts which they did at this exhibition. Under the training of Mr. Hubbard the juniors have been thoroughly drilled and the part taken by them was interesting to all. The work done by the seniors was of a more difficult nature but they did their stunts to the admiration of all. The rope vaulting was especially interesting and the highest point reached was 8½ feet. The torch swinging by Hubbard required a great deal of skill and with the lights turned off the effect was beautiful.

Y. M. C. A. pins were awarded to the juniors who won in the relay block race. The senior contest was very close their being only two points difference between Chester Barnes and Raymond Lingle. Others made equally good points but did not participate in all the tests. The winner in the senior contest will receive a medal. The basket ball game was of a fantastic nature, all the players being dressed in female attire and faces blackened. The chocolate drop team won. Physical Director Hubbard was well pleased with the manner in which the boys acquitted themselves.

Play Was Satisfactory

Those who saw George Ade's "Just out of College" at State College Monday evening enjoyed over two hours of good humor and wholesome comedy. The play begins with a busy scene in Pickering's pickleing establishing and you are soon fascinated by the clever acting of the entire cast. The second act is a pure food exposition and the products of Pickerings probable son-in-law are on exhibition in competition with Pickerings, who gave Mr. Swinger the money to engage in business. The "harmony four" assisted by a very clever bevy of dancers was a hit of the evening.

The third act depicted the many different characters that may be seen at a railroad station and there was not a dry moment in the act. The play was entirely satisfactory to all.

The Alpha Fire company of State College for whose benefit the play was given will realize a good sum of money as the proceeds and great credit is due them for having secured an attraction which was first class in every respect.

NEW RAILROAD COMMISSION

Has First Hearing at Harrisburg on Wednesday.

TWO CASES DISCUSSED.

Ohio River Junction Railroad Charged With Poor Car Service. Bustleton Folks Complain.

WILL HEAR OTHER COMPLAINTS

Harrisburg April 9th.—Pennsyvania's new State Railroad Commission held its first hearing Wednesday, the first complaint being that of the Pennsylvania Clay Manufacturing Company, of near Rochester, against the Ohio River Junction Railroad Company, on the ground that the car service is not sufficient. All of the members were present and the hearing was held in the meeting room in the east wing of the Capitol.

The Pennsylvania Clay Manufacturing Company was represented by W. W. Cunningham, its president, and its officers, who related the efforts to secure additional cars for the products of the company, which is the chief industry on the line between Conway and Rochester. Testimony as to whether the equipment of the Junction Railroad Company is sufficient for the needs of the firms and persons along its lines was given by E. P. Whiter engineer of the eastern division of the Fort Wayne and Inspector of Maintenance of Way M. McCallahan. President W. A. Park, of the Junction Railroad Company, and several other officers appeared for the respondents.

The hearing was continued this afternoon and at its conclusion the complaint of citizens of Bustleton against the Pennsylvania and Reading companies on the charge of insufficient train service was taken up. Tomorrow the York switching case will be heard.

A Perfect Nickle Alarm.

Whether you are required to report for work "On the minute" or a person of leisure, a good alarm clock is often a necessity. The Rotator is dependable and is recommended to both light and sound sleepers as positively the safest and surest guarantee of being aroused at the time desired.

Ultra sound sleepers, after using the common, continous alarm clock a short time, have found that the alarm awakens them momentarily only, and they again lapse into slumber, the alarm having failed of its purpose. The alternate noise and silence of the "Rotator" is so irritating in its effort and so persistent in keeping at it that it never fails of its object.

The retail price of the clock is $2.50 On account of the universal depression, the manufacturer was compelled to have ready money, and "The Philadelphia Press" made an arrangement direct with him that enables them to offer "The Press" Daily, one whole year, and one of the "Rotators" delivered at your door, both for four dollars and twenty-five cents.

The saving is yours, but hurry as the demand is greater than the supply.

What Ails You?

Do you feel weak, tired, despondent, have frequent headaches, coated tongue, bitter or bad taste in morning, "heartburn," belching of gas, acid risings in throat after eating, stomach gnaw or burn, foul breath, dizzy spells, poor or variable appetite, nausea at times and kindred symptoms?

If you have any considerable number of the above symptoms you are suffering from biliousness, torpid liver with indigestion, or dyspepsia. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is made up of the most valuable medicinal principles known to medical science for the permanent cure of such abnormal conditions. It is a most efficient liver invigorator, stomach tonic, bowel regulator and nerve strengthener.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" is not a patent medicine or secret nostrum, a full list of its ingredients being printed on its bottle-wrapper and attested under oath. A glance at its formula will show that it contains no alcohol, or harmful habit-forming drugs. It is a fluid extract made with pure, triple-refined glycerine, of proper strength, from the roots of the following native American forest plants, viz., Golden Seal root, Stone root, Black Cherrybark, Queen's root, Bloodroot, and Mandrake root.

The following leading medical authorities, among a host of others, extol the foregoing roots for the cure of just such ailments as the above symptoms indicate: Prof. R. Bartholow, M. D., of Jefferson Med. College, Phila.; Prof. H. C. Wood, M. D., of Univ. of Pa.; Prof. Edwin M. Hale, M. D., of Hahnemann Med. College, Chicago; Prof. John King, M. D., Author of American Dispensatory; Prof. Jno. M. Scudder, M. D., Author of Specific Medicines; Prof. Lawrence Johnson, M. D., Med. Dept. Univ. of N. Y.; Prof. Finley Ellingwood, M. D., Author of Materia Medica and Prof. in Bennett Medical College, Chicago. Send name and address on Postal Card to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., and receive free booklet giving extracts from writings of all the above medical authors and many others endorsing, in the strongest possible terms, each and every ingredient of which "Golden Medical Discovery" is composed.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate and invigorate stomach, liver and bowels. They may be used in conjunction with "Golden Medical Discovery" if bowels are much constipated. They're tiny and sugar-coated.

There is absolutely nothing in common between a dirty cream separator and a gilt edged butter product.

Any system of agriculture which encourages grain selling rather than dairying and stock raising is open to serious criticism.

Soils where the sorrel grows readily and clover will not get a foothold may be put right by the application of lime in some form.

Every use in which cement may be substituted for lumber is directly an aid to the government's wise system of forest preservation.

The truly patriotic citizen will not only vote for the right man at the polls in November, but he will plant seed corn in April and May.

While there should very properly be drafts coming from the chicken house now and then, there should be none entering it at night while the fowls are at roost.

Since hen manure is a very concentrated fertilizer, it should be put on the garden quite sparingly. If applied too plentifully it will kill vegetation and even young trees.

It will be very likely the same chap who failed to test his seed corn before planting it who will be bemoaning his hard luck and cussing the weather and Providence next election time.

There is a whole raft of so called pious and really well meaning people with whom it is mighty uncomfortable getting along, the trouble being as largely due to matters of psychology as of morals.

When the poultry is confined, and particularly during the winter months, meat scraps or other animal food should be provided to take the place of the insect life which they feed upon extensively during the spring, summer and fall months.

A young man's chief and most valuable assets as he starts out in life are honesty, sobriety and push. If a fellow has these traits, he will win out under most any circumstances, and if he doesn't he surely has a rocky and disappointing row to hoe.

It is quite likely more a matter of an available food supply than a certain degree of temperature that calls the migratory birds to their northern haunts at the return of spring. They fly south in the fall at the disappearance of insect life and return when it awakens in the spring.

There should be brought into the home along with sacks of flour, flitches of bacon and canned stuff good books and magazines for the maintenance of the intellectual life of the home. Starvation of the higher faculties may not be so immediately noticeable as is a depletion of physical strength, yet the effects are just as disastrous and far-reaching.

The broad tired wagon and the King road drag should go hand in hand in the improvement of the country highways. The use of the narrow tire on roads that have been putin good shape will tend to undo much of the good work which has been done, while the broad tired wagon is a real aid to whatever may have been accomplished along the line of road improvement.

A nearby farmer who for a number of years past has made a specialty of some one product each year last year had fifty acres planted to cabbages. When he had marketed the last carload of the vegetable, he found that he had cleared in the neighborhood of $50 per acre. The raising of the crop meant to start with a rich soil, clean cultivation and lots of hard work both in the care and marketing of the crop.

The listing of corn—the planting of it in the bottom of a deep furrow and the covering of it deeper as it germinates and grows—is practiced in several transmississippi states and is made necessary in order to make up for a deficient rainfall. Planted in this way the roots of the corn go deep and receive moisture from the subsoil. In other states in the eastern portion of the corn belt the effort of the tiller of the soil is quite often to overcome the handicap of a surplus of moisture.

There has recently been placed in a sawmill at Tacoma, Wash., what is said to be the largest leather belt that was ever made. It is 114 feet long, eight feet wide and three ply thick. It weighs 2,500 pounds, and there were required in its manufacture the hides of 225 large steers. The hides after being tanned were stretched under great tension and cemented to each other under a very heavy pressure, so that there was no need for a stitch or rivet in the whole belt.

While a cream separator is an admirable machine in the hands of a careful person, in the hands of one who is slovenly and dirty it may become a mere device for covering up filth, in which case it completely fails of its mission.

The fellow with a cracker box full of beer and whisky bottles in his wood shed, who attributes his poverty and so called hard luck to the economic system in which he lives on the government to which he pays taxes, is lacking in the ability to reason from cause to effect.

Every quarter section farm should have a flock of sheep numbering from thirty to sixty. If present fences are not adequate the reform should begin here. In any event there should be the sheep. It is well to embark in the business on a modest scale and increase the flock as experience is acquired.

"God helps those who help themselves" is nowhere given a more exact application than in the case of the fellow who thoroughly tests his seed corn. The good Lord can't do much for the fellow who is slipshod and trusts to luck, and this is just as true in the field of agriculture as it is in the realm of morals.

If the recent financial depression has caught any one class on the hip more than another it is those who, counting on a continuation of boom times, were last fall doing a $100,000 land business on a capital of less than $10,000, with a whole lot of partial payments made by customers on land negotiated with no present prospect that they will be able to make another payment for some time to come.

Few men of ordinary capacity can make a striking success of more than one thing, be it in the professions or various business pursuits, and the largest measure of success is usually obtained by devoting one's energies only to a single phase of a given occupation. Such restriction of attention and activity permits of a closeness of study and application that is not possible where a fellow tries to spread himself out over a forty acre lot.

While environment often contributes to success or failure in life, the determining causes in nine cases out of ten lie in the man himself. There are men who are bound to rise regardless of obstacles that they may find in their way, while another class could not be lifted out of the rut in which they move with anything short of block and tackle. While traits of push or inertia may be in a measure inherited, it is well to remember that both may be measurably increased or diminished by persistent attention or by indifference and neglect.

Potatoes to produce the smoothest and best tubers should be cut so as to have two strong eyes to the piece and planted to a depth of four inches in a rich soil which has been put in the best of tilth. If the potatoes to be used for seed show signs of scab they should be given the formalin treatment, suspended in a gunny sack and soaked for two hours in a solution made by mixing one-quarter of a pint of formalin in about twelve gallons of water. This treatment should be given the seed after it is cut and a short time before planting.

There are occasions when the taking or giving of a receipt for a sum of money paid may seem to be unnecessary, yet it is wise to do so in every case. With the most honest and best meaning of people there is possibility of a failure to make proper credit for an amount paid, and unless memory serves there is likely to be ground for a serious misunderstanding. As soon as one receives a receipt or acknowledgment he should file it away in a place of safe keeping, where it can be found should occasion require. The saving of all receipts may mean the saving of a good many dollars in a period of years.

The farmer who is wading around in his barnyard these days in a sort of manurial mush or gravy and has a good sized stack of straw in a nearby field which will have to be scattered and burned or hauled off before that part of the field can be plowed is certainly in need of instruction on some of the fundamentals of a rational system of agriculture. How much better all around if all of the straw that he did not need for feed had been scattered liberally over the whole barnyard and feed lot! This by spring would have become packed down and saturated with the melting snow and fertilizing elements of the droppings and urine, with the result that a fine lot of additional manure would have been at hand, ready for distribution on the hungry land.

The other day, within a week after the sweet liquid notes of the first meadow larks were heard in the vicinity where the writer lives, his attention was called to the fact that on the preceding day a fool schoolboy with a gun had come out from town and killed one of the pretty fellows without provocation of any kind, but just simply as the result of the barbarian desire to kill something. The lad in question must have been poorly trained at home and had his wits woolgathering when his teacher was trying to inculcate lessons on the protection of the useful song birds or he would never have been guilty of such an offense. The laws of his state impose a fine for the destruction of such birds, a law that merely from the financial standpoint of the farmer and gardener should be enforced to the letter.

FEDERAL BIRD PROTECTION.

If the reports in the public press during the past few months relative to the destruction of migratory song birds in southern states can be accepted with any degree of accuracy, it would seem high time that our chief executive and our representatives in congress were coming forward and espousing the cause of the protection of our useful birds by federal statute. It is reported that in the state of Louisiana alone there were killed by pot hunters during five or six weeks during January and February the enormous number of 1,000,000 robins. What the slaughter of this enormous number of useful birds means along the line of a destruction of power to hold insect pests in check can hardly be estimated. Yet it is quite likely that these birds were but a small portion of the total number of this and other varieties killed. Not only is the robin a friend of the southern gardener and cotton grower in destroying the common insects and the cotton boll weevil, but he is the main standby of the northern agriculturist. Every argument, both of sentiment and utility, would seem to demand that he and others be protected by federal laws which would levy a heavy fine for killing such birds, whether to provide wings and feathers for my lady's hat or to furnish the filling for potpies. Along with and in return for protection by people of the south of the robin and his like, birds which spend their winters there, the northern farmer could well afford to provide more nesting places and protect the purple martin, which, in addition to paying for his keep in the north, is considered one of the most valuable birds to the cotton growers in the destruction of the cotton boll weevil. The species of birds mentioned as well as many others are from their migratory habits factors of interstate interest and traffic, even if they do provide for their own transportation, and would therefore seem to come quite properly within the scope of federal or interstate legislation.

THE CORN QUESTION.

Viewed from several sides, it is questionable if in the end fifty cent corn is as great a boon for the agricultural interests of the country as many are wont to hold. In the first place, unless both hogs and cattle fetch an extremely high price, there is insufficient margin to justify extensive feeding operations. The result of this condition is that much of the grain is sold in the raw state, a large amount of fertility being removed from the farm in the process. With twenty-five cent corn, on the other hand, the temptation to sell the grain is greatly reduced, while if fed to stock it can be counted on with fair prices to yield 50 cents or better per bushel. The lower priced corn is not only a boon to the fellow who raises what he feeds because stock feeding tends to increase the fertility of his land, but it is also a distinct advantage to the fellow who has to buy all his feed. The above remarks would hardly hold good if fifty cent corn were always accompanied by $7.50 hogs, but this is not the case. The past winter season found corn between 50 and 60 cents per bushel, depending somewhat upon quality and locality, while hogs brought barely $4 per hundredweight on the central markets. The whole effect of this situation was to discourage or stop almost entirely stock feeding operations and dump a horde of unfinished stock upon a slump market, and this, whatever the price received for corn, can only be viewed as an agricultural calamity.

A GOOD WORD FOR THE DEVIL.

They possess an unfortunate disposition who are so warped or jealous that they can see little or no good in their fellows. We have in mind an acquaintance who is of this type. He almost unconsciously minimizes and discounts the good traits and deeds of his fellows and in the same way magnifies their defects and misconduct. This view of life always places human beings below par, is as pessimistic as it is unfair and brings no comfort or sunshine into life. Rather should be cultivated the habit of the good old sister who had such a way of saying a good word for all that when some one to test her began to upbraid the devil as a pretty tough character she replied that if Christian people were as energetic and industrious in working at their profession as he was at his the world would be a good deal better off. While the old lady may have carried her doctrine to an extreme, she was certainly working along the right line.

OPENING FOR HOME SEEKERS.

Under the provisions of the Carey federal irrigation act there will be offered for sale by the government this spring 412 forty-acre farms in the Yellowstone river valley, in the state of Montana. The farms are three miles from a railway station, while the climate of the section is delightful and the soil most fertile and responsive when quickened with the water from the irrigation system. Wheat, oats, rye and barley are all grown successfully, while apples and small fruits do exceptionally well. Alfalfa yields five tons per acre and fetches $5 per ton in the stack, while as high as $50 per acre is made from the culture of sugar beets. These small farms can be secured at a very reasonable figure, detailed information regarding them and the conditions under which they may be secured being obtainable from the statistician of the United States reclamation service, Washington. This is a bona fide proposition and is worth looking into.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

In Use For Over 30 Years.

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, 77 MURRAY STREET, NEW YORK CITY.

A City of Caravans.

The first of November is the official beginning of winter in Paris. Then, no matter what the temperature be, fires are lit in the schools and public buildings, and the janitor turns on the heat for the sad race of flat dwellers. Then all the smaller shows which cannot pay for a "stand" in the streets or squares go into winter quarters. Where? I found a city of them out in the waste lands by the great gate of Montrouge. In an empty lot were scores of caravans drawn up behind the wooden palisades, ranged so as to form veritable streets, named after this showman or that. Dogs, chickens, rabbits, children, swarmed everywhere. Corkscrews of smoke rose from the chimneys of the wagons. Gaudy rags were drying on lines. Will you look in one of the vans? It has two rooms. In one are the beds. The other is for eating. On all sides the walls are lined with closets and drawers. A little stove glows near the door. Here they are born, here they live and die, the enternal dynasties of the voyagers.—Vance Thompson in Outing Magazine.

The Truly Beautiful.

There is, it has been said, no fixed standard of art criticism. What is lauded today is discarded tomorrow, and even connoisseurs disagree bewilderingly; but, glancing back over the ages, it will be found that the discord has been caused by technical divergence and that in every land and among all peoples the truly beautiful has been generally recognized and correctly esteemed. No one questions today the beauty of the Greek temple or the charm of the Babylonian pottery. It does not require trained eyes to recognize the merit of an oriental flower painting or to find delight in one of Whistler's nocturnes. The fundamentals in each instance are the same—rhythmical line, fair proportions and harmonious coloring. We have to be led ofttimes up the ascent of art, and there is much discussion concerning the byways, but once on the height all dissension ends, and we no longer need a guide.—Leila Mechlin in Century.

Dryden's Ruse.

The story is told that Dryden, finishing his translation of "Virgil," sent it to Jacob Tonson for publication for a sum specified upon the manuscript. Tonson was desirous of obtaining the book, but determined to take advantage of Dryden's need of money. He therefore informed the poet that he could not pay the sum Dryden asked. In reply Dryden sent the following lines in description of the publisher:

With leering look, bull faced and freckled fair,
With two left legs, with Judas colored hair
And frowsy pores that taint the ambient air.

When this was delivered to Tonson he asked if Dryden had said anything more. "Yes," replied the bearer, "he said to tell the dog that he who wrote these lines could write more like them." Tonson sent the money at once.

Crocodiles and the Cure.

One does not usually connect crocodiles with a health resort—rather the reverse—but the creatures are quite a feature of the Indian bathing place of Manghapir, about nine miles from Karachi. This town is a place of pilgrimage for pious Hindoos, but it is chiefly famous for the value of its waters in the cure of the dread scourge of leprosy. The waters are hot, and more than 60 per cent of the sufferers who bathe there annually, it is said, are cured. The crocodiles are rather noteworthy in that they live in the hot water, apparently suffering no inconvenience from its temperature or medicinal qualities.—Wide World Magazine.

Important Y. M C. A. Conference

Thursday evening an important although quiet little event occurred at the Young Men's Christian Association building, in the form of a tea table conference of the Board of Directors with a number of the leading supporters of this organization. Tables had been nicely arranged by a committee of young men, who were also responsible for the serving of an excellent supper. Altogether about forty were in attendance at this supper conference. An excellent exhibit of photographs, drawings, telegraph instruments, camera's etc. had been arranged to illustrate the various enterprises carried on by the local association showing the most advanced step in association effort ever undertaken by the local Y. M. C. A. Much surprise was caused by an exhibit of eighteen mechanical drawing plates, completed by Norman Kirk in the Y. M. C. A. class this winter, when the statement was made that State College was to credit these eighteen plates as against the twenty-one plates required by the college course Mr. Kirk contemplates.

After an exhibit of this kind it became necessary for the association officers to explain what was meant by the statement that the work had reached a crisis, which explanation in substance follows:

"The extra boom impulse caused by the opening of a new building had expended its force and can no longer be depended upon as the great incoming tide of success. This year the association must strike its level of operation unaffected by booms or special impulses. The question must now be settled for all time, "What shall be the maximum amount of work that the people of Bellefonte will make possible yearly by their contributions of time and money. Many actual demands were being made for forms of service that the Y. M. C. A. alone is prepared to render to our community and to many of these demands the association must turn a deaf-ear this year in order to make its present budget cover its work.

It was suggested that, could the burden of the mortgage be lifted and a steam heating plant be installed at the building that at least $600 could be saved in interest money and heating expense and applied to the actual work of the association. It is hoped that the suggestions may be carried out in the near future

Assistant State Secretary A. F. Hoffsommer, was also present and made an encouraging address after which the conference adjourned.

May Double Track B. E. V. Road.

The work train force on the Bald Eagle Valley railroad has been increased and the crew is now engaged in leveling the track and making needed repairs. At present they are working between Snow Shoe Intersection and Unionville filling the dip in that portion of the track. It is currently reported that the Bald Eagle Valley division will be double tracked from the Intersection to Lock Haven and that this crew is doing the preliminary work. The traffic on this road has been greatly increased since the freight that formerly went via Lewistown Junction is routed over the Bald Eagle Valley road.

MEETING WAS CALLED OFF

Presidential Candidates Were to Meet in Washington.

RECEPTION FOR KNOX

Senator Penrose's Illness Interrupted Plans and Invitations Were Recalled and Meeting Postponed

ROOSEVELT WAS TO HAVE ATTENDED

Washington, April 11.—The critical illness of Senator Boies Penrose necessitated the recalling of the invitations, for what would have been the most notable gathering of political celebrities held in Washington for many years. The Pennsylvania Club of this city had planned a reception to Senator P. C. Knox, Pennsylvania's candidate for the presidency, and over 2,500 invitations had been issued for it. President Roosevelt, Secretary Taft, Vice President Fairbanks, Speaker Cannon, senators, justices of the supreme court, cabinet ministers, members of congress and others high in official life, had accepted and were to be present. Gov. Stuart and Lieut. Gov. Murphy of Pennsylvania, were to have been here, together with many prominent citizens of Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, and other cities.

President Roosevelt accepts few invitations to functions of this sort, but he told the committee that invited him that he would make an exception in this case as he wished to show his esteem for his former attorney general. Six of the eight men who have been mentioned in connection with the Republican presidential nomination, would have been present at this reception, the two absentees being Gov. Hughes of New York and Senator Lafollette of Wisconsin.

On the day that the reception was to have been held, reports from Senator Penrose's sick room showed that he was in a very critical condition. They were of a most discouraging nature. Then upon Senator Knox addressed a letter to the Club saying that Senator Penrose's "Illness is of so grave a character that I feel strongly the propriety of requesting you to withdraw the invitations." This was done and while all admitted the propriety of this course, there was general regret that the notable gathering of candidates could not be held.

Barclay And the "Old Maid"

Representative Barclay of Sinnamahoning, is an old soldier, is a member of the pension committee, and, as such is besieged these days by soldiers' widows to know how the bill increasing their pensions to $12 per month is coming along. The prize letter on this subject was received by him a day or two ago. It was written by an "old maid;" at least she styled herself one, and inquired earnestly as to the prospect of the new pension bill becoming a law.

Her interest she naively explained, arose from the fact that there was an old soldier in her neighborhood who wanted to marry her and as he was in poor health she was inclined to accept him if she were sure that the Senate amendment making the bill apply to all widows, whether they were married twenty years ago or twenty hours after the passage of the law. Her letter is now on file with the Pension Committee. —Washington Correspondent to Philadelphia Press.

Rifle Practice

The adjutant general's office Thursday announced that after May 1 all practice at rifle ranges and all drills must be made with the United States army magazine rifle, having completed arrangements for arming the state guard with that weapon. The state has secured the 1903 model and the various organizations of the guard will be equipped during this month, so that active work with the new guns may begin promptly. This arrangement was made with the federal authorities in accordance with the law to make the equipment of the state troops similar to that of the regular army. Blanket rolls and uniforms are also being changed to those of the federal troops. The customary order opening the rifle pratice season on May 1 was issued. The season will last until October 31.

The Restorative is a genuine tonic to tired, rundown nerves, and but a few doses is needed to satisfy the user that Dr. Shoop's Restorative is actually reaching that tired spot. The indoor life of winter nearly always leads to sluggish circulation in general. The customary lack of exercise and out door air ties up the liver, stagnates the kidneys, and oftimes weakens the Heart's action. Use Dr. Shoop's Restorative a few weeks and all will be changed. A few days test will tell you that you are using the right remedy. You will easily and surely note the change from day to day. Sold by Green's.

The Faithful Little Guide.

Ofttimes I have seen a tall ship glide by against the tide as if drawn by some invisible towline with a hundred strong arms pulling it. Her sails hung unfilled; her streamers were drooping; she had neither side wheel nor stern wheel. Still she moved on stately in serene triumph, as if with her own life. But I knew that on the other side of the ship, hidden beneath the great hulk that swam so majestically, there was a little toiling steam tug with a heart of fire and arms of iron that was hugging it close and dragging it bravely on, and I knew that if the little steam tug untwined her arms and left the tall ship it would wallow and roll about and drift hither and thither and go off with refluent tide, no man knows whither. And so I have known more than one genius, high decked, full freighted, wide sailed, gay pennoned, that but for the bare toiling arms and brave, warm-beating heart of the faithful little wife that nestled close to him so that no wind or wave could part them would soon have gone down stream and been heard of no more.—Oliver Wendell Holmes.

A Fatal Sleep.

Hugh Miller, the Scottish geologist and writer, was one of the most illustrious of sleepwalkers. Miller, who had been addicted to somnambulism in his youth, found his restlessness return while he was engaged upon his "Testimony of the Rocks." He used to wake in the morning feeling, as he said, as if he had been abroad in the night wind, dragged by some invisible power and ridden by witches. On the night of his death he slept alone. In the morning they found him stretched dead on the floor with a bullet through his breast. He had written a note to his wife: "My brain burns. I must have walked, and a fearful dream rises upon me. I cannot bear the horrible thought. My brain burns as the recollection grows." So intense had been the poor fellow's anguish that to make certain his end he had torn back shirt and vest and placed the muzzle of the pistol to his naked flesh.—St. James' Gazette.

The Fractured Leg.

A visitor was going through the children's surgical ward of one of the city hospitals when he spied a little fellow with his legs in the air and his weight resting on his head and shoulders. Going closer, he saw that the boy's feet were fastened with ropes which passed through a pulley above. At the other ends of the ropes were weights, just heavy enough to hold the boy's legs in the air without lifting him entirely off the bed.

"What's all that about?" asked the visitor. "Doesn't it hurt him?"

"Not at all," answered the physician who was accompanying. "He doesn't look unhappy, does he? That's the way we always handle fractures of the leg with a child. Otherwise the youngsters squirm around so that they work the splints loose. Only one of this boy's legs is injured, but they are both swung in the air for his greater comfort."—New York Post.

Sorrows of a Humorist.

"This thing of being a humorist is about the saddest thing I know," sighed Simeon Ford. "An ordinary person can have his moods and humors as he pleases, but I must always be on the job. I am constantly being invited out, not because I'm liked for myself alone or because of my manly beauty, but because I am expected to entertain the assemblage. The rest of the company may be as dull as dishwater, but if I do not shake up the gathering with a few jokes the hostess glares at me and really feels resentful. I may be sunk in the slough of despond, but just as soon as I take my seat all lean forward and eye me expectantly. My son, never get a reputation for being funny. It is the most mournful thing on earth."—New York Press.

Teeth of Chambermaids.

Have you ever noticed that every chambermaid who has been taking care of the hay and feathers for a number of years is usually devoid of a few teeth of the upper "case?" Veteran chambermaids can seldom show a full set of upper teeth. The absence of the ivories is explained as follows by a downtown dentist: "The teeth of the maids which I replace with artificial ones are pillowcase teeth. They are constantly used in putting on pillowcases and are not strong enough to stand the strain. Their work is a constant wear and tear on the teeth."—Pittsburg Dispatch.

Her Sponge Cake.

A young bride, after serving to her husband a Sunday dinner that was so-so, said as the mince pie was brought on, "I intended, dear, to have some sponge cake, too, but it has been a total failure." "How was that?" the husband asked in a disappointed tone, for he was fond of sponge cake. "The druggist," she explained, "sent me the wrong kind of sponges."

Plenty of Advice.

"I wonder what the secret of Solomon's wisdom was?" said Mr. Meekton's wife.

"Good advice," replied Leonidas promptly. "He had any number of wives."—Washington Star.

A Dangerous Feat.

For a feat of dexterity and nerve it would be difficult to surpass that of the Bosjesman of South Africa, who walks quietly up to a puff adder and deliberately sets his bare foot on its neck. In its struggles to escape and attempts to bite its assailant the poison gland secretes a large amount of the venom. This is just what the Bosjesman wants. Killing the snake, he eats the body and uses the poison for his arrows.

Where Ma Was Strict.

Little Girl—My mamma is awful strict. Is yours? Little Boy—Orful. Little Girl—But she lets you go anywhere you want to and— Little Boy—Oh, she ain't strict with me. Little Girl—Then who is she strict with? Little Boy—Pa.

Wasteful.

Grasper (a very careful man)—No, I should never allow my daughter to marry a journalist. He always wastes one side of the paper. And still less should she wed a poet. He doesn't even go to the end of the line.

Suited the Case.

Tom—Here! You've started your note to Borroughs "Dr. Sir." Don't you know that sort of abbreviation is very slovenly? Dick—No, sir. "Dr." is all right in this case. He owes me money.—Kansas City Independent.

Result of Early Training.

Cobwigger—In what way does Newrich show that he isn't a gentleman? Merritt—By paying cash for everything he buys.—Tailor.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery

The Great Restorative

Non-Alcoholic Tonic

of the day, made entirely of native medicinal roots and without a drop of alcohol in its composition.

There are no secrets---all its ingredients being printed on the bottle-wrappers.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" not only builds up the strength of the feeble, debilitated, languid, nervous and easily fatigued, whether young or aged, but it enriches and purifies the blood, thus making the improvement lasting.

It corrects and overcomes indigestion, dyspepsia, biliousness, torpid liver, chronic diarrhea and kindred derangements of the stomach, liver and bowels.

Bronchial, throat and laryngeal affections, attended with hoarseness, persistent cough, and all manner of catarrhal affections are cured by the "Golden Medical Discovery."

In Chronic Nasal Catarrh, it is well to cleanse the nasal passages out freely with Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy fluid while taking the "Golden Medical Discovery" as a constitutional treatment. Old obstinate cases of catarrh yield to this thorough course of treatment.

Through enriching and purifying the blood, the "Discovery" cures scrofulous affections, also blotches, pimples, eruptions, and other ugly affections of the skin. Old, open, running sores, or ulcers, are healed by taking the "Golden Medical Discovery" internally and applying Dr. Pierce's All-Healing Salve as a local dressing. The Salve can be had of druggists, or will be sent by return mail on receipt of 50 cents in stamps. Address Doctor Pierce as below for it.

In short "Golden Medical Discovery" regulates, purifies and invigorates the whole system and thus cures a very large range of diseases. The reason Why it cures such a varied list of diseases is made clear in a little booklet of extracts from the leading medical authorities, compiled by Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., and which he will be pleased to send post-paid and entirely free to any who send him their names and addresses.

You can't afford to accept a substitute of unknown composition for this non-secret MEDICINE OF KNOWN COMPOSITION.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. Constipation is the cause of many diseases. Cure the cause and you cure the disease. One "Pellet" is a gentle laxative, and two a mild cathartic. Druggists sell them, and nothing is "just as good." They are the original Little Liver Pills first put up by old Dr. Pierce over 40 years ago. Much imitated, but never equaled. They are tiny sugar-coated granules—easy to take as candy.

If a cough once gets into your system it acts on every muscle and fibre of the body and makes you ache all over. It especially affects the intestines and makes you constipated, so in order to get rid of a cold thoroughly and without delay you should not take anything that will tend to constipate. Kennedy's Laxative Cough Syrup acts upon the bowels and thereby drives the cold out of the system. It contains no opiates—it is pleasant to take and is highly recommended for children. Sold by Green's Pharmacy.

THE WOMAN WHO COUGHED.

Catarrh had nearly ruined me. It had eaten away the partition in my nose; produced Asthma, Bronchitis, Rheumatism; ruined my stomach; in fact, gone all through my system. Then Grip finished me. I was a wreck; took cold at nothing; and coughed day and night. The doctors dosed me with opium and quinine. No good. Cough "cures"? Bah! Then Brazilian Balm renovated me. Killed every germ. Took 10 $1.00 bottles. Now I'm like a girl of 18.

A Washington county farmer has brought suit for damages because the roads in his district were in such a condition that he could not market his hay. There should be a few state roads in that county to educate the people in road making.

IT is stated that the first baseall factory was started just 50 years ago. Before 1858 the players had to depend on the home-made article, the chunk of rubber wound with yarn and covered with a clumsily sewed casing of leather. And now just stop and try to estimate the amount of pleasure that the perfected sphere has given this country during the past half century.

Adjournment Talk.

The fact that this is a presidential as well as a congressional year is having its effect upon the minds of the legislators at Washington, who are now taking thought about adjournment. In some quarters consideration of the matter has taken such definate shape that even a date has been suggested, namely May 9. This date seems to put a rather early period to the activity of Congress if the programme suggested by the President is to be carried out in anything like its full extent. It is probable, of course, that the President will be consulted before any final arrangement will be made, and there can be no doubt that his voice will have much weight in reference to a matter whose decision may involve the failure or the success of some of the measures in which he is specially interested. On the oteer hand, it seems likely that, as has often happened in similar cases before all that has been planned cannot be accomplished, and that Mr. Roosevelt will be convinced that a part at least of what has been expected must remain unfulfil'ed for the present session at least.

The Army Pay Bill.

The United States Senate has passed the bill authorizing the increase of army pay in a proportion ranging from 10 per cent on the pay of higher officers to 25 per cent on the lower officers and privates. Its fate now depends on the spirit with which it is received in the House.

Since the bill was drawn the adverse view has been presented that the reaction in business and less active employment of labor take away the necessity of increasing the inducement for enlistments. But this is quite a short-sighted view. The present rate of pay was established over a quarter of a century ago; and even in the dullest times of the past two decades the rate of wages for the class of men wanted in the army has not been below that offered to recruits.

No one need fear that with this bill passed the rank and file will be overpaid. We have an expensive military establishment in proportion to its size, but the cost is not in the rate of pay. The House should pass the bill without he-itation.

Roosevelt Hits at Anarchy

In perhaps the briefest but not the least forcible of his message, President Roosevelt declares his detestation of anarchy, his view as to the scope of the powers possessed by him for its repression, and his belief in the need of further legislation in addition to that already on the statue books. With the message the President transmits a letter from Attorney-General Bonaparte. Upon the basis of the opinion therein given, Mr. Roosevelt holds that existing statutes give the President power to probibit the Postmaster-General from being used as an instrument in the commission of crime—that is, to prohibit the use of the mails for the advocacy of murder, arson and treason—and he announces that he will act upon that construction. When compared with the suppression of anarchy, Mr. Roosevelt says, every other question sinks into insignificance. No immigrant, he adds, is allowed to come to our shores if an anarchist, and no paper published here or abroad should be permitted to circulate in this country if it propages anarchistic opinions

Why Meat is Higher.

In a discussion of the state of trade Broadstreet's gives the following concerning the increase in the prices of meat, which is the generally accepted reason.

The past six months has seen sharp changes in the live-animal and meat business. There has been in a period of depression a sharp decline and later a quick advance in prices. High interest rates, scarcity of money and high cost of feed caused many cattle and other animals to be sacrificed last fall and winter. The feeding districts are denuded of their animals, and now that the surplus is out of the way, prices have advanced rapidly. Retail prices, it is claimed, did not fall equally with wholesale rates, but are being marked up much more rapidly. High prices are predicted for some time to come.

Dr. Gunn's Latest Work.

Every disease to which the human race is subject is fully and ably treated in this exhaustive, new, revised and enlarged edition of Dr. Gunn's household physician or home-book of health. The author's name is familiar to every household in the land, and no book published is more valuable in the home. The work retails everywhere for four dollars and fifty cents. As an inducement to retain old subscribers and establish new ones, "The Philadelphia Press" has made an arrangement with the publishers of this volume that allows them to offer a short time only, the Daily edition of "The Press" one entire year and this indispenesable work delivered to your door, with no other charge, for four dollars and twenty-five cents. It means a worth of seven dollars and a half.

Cut out this notice and mail it with your order at once if you desire the advantage of this offer, as the price is subject to advancement before another opportunity presents.

The Hospital Donation.

The Ladies Auxiliary of the Bellefonte hospital wishes to remind the public of of their generous donation of eggs and potatoes given last year to the hospital. As the hospital has been enlarged and there are many more patrons they ask for a specially large donation this year. An invitation will be given to the school children to assist in this work as heretofore. A small donation from every person in Bellefonte would amount to a great deal the aggregate.

Correspondence.

Moshannon.

The movings in this community, so far, for this season, are as follows: Clyde Quick, moved from the "Bowes property" on Main street, to the "riff" house at Gilintown. Frank Culver, will occupy part of the same house, having moved from the T. D. Weaver, farm near Cherry Run. James Diem, takes the house vacated by Quick, leaving his house, known as the "Yeager Property," to Elmer Conaway, who left J. T. Lucas' house, near the store, designated the "Daddy Cartright House." Robert Reiter, has gone to the "Carson Home" in Pine Glen, vacating John Lucas' house which will be occupied by Reed Bierly. Wm. Vail, moved from one of the houses at Gilintown, to Snow Shoe.

Quite a disastrous fire occurred at the "Cross Roads" recently which destroyed the entire village, consisting of a dwelling house, blacksmith shop, stable, and an old dwelling, abandoned some time ago. The house was occupied by John Armo, whose loss was almost total, being unable to cope with the flames in their mad rush of destruction. The fire started from an over-heated stove while baking.

Mrs. Brown, of Blandsburg, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. A. A. Groe, at the present time.

J. T. Lucas, returned home recently from a pleasant trip to York, (where he attended the M. E. Conference), Baltimore, Washington, Philadelphia and Pottsville.

Elmer Shangraw and family, of Newberry, spent Sunday at the home of Mrs. G. E. French, at this place.

Wm. Lucas and wife, visited friends in the vicinity of Wallace Run, one day of the past week.

During the past week our schools closed, thus ending a very successful term. The teachers proved their ability to please and in all probability, will be given a call to continue their instructions another term.

Miss Laura Williams, teacher of the primary school, has gone to Spring Mills, where she will make further preparation for "handling the kids," while Miss Rhoda Weaver, teacher of the Sugar Camp school, will join the merry crowd of teachers, at the C, S. N. S. Lock Haven.

James Lucas, is contemplating a trip to Oklahoma, in the near future, to view the country and look out a location to settle down.

Runville

J. S. Fulton P. E. of the U. B. district preached a very interesting sermon Monday night.

Mrs. William Watson and little son Victor, have returned home after a pleasant visitor to Snow Shoe.

Joseph Witherite has departed for parts unknown.

The spring season has already opened as the farmers are busily engaged turning the sod on the hillsides and level meadow while the female sect are engaged in cleaning house or picking dandelion.

Mr. and Mrs. Uriah Housel of Milesburg were guests of Willis Poorman Sunday.

Carl Garbrick of Bellefonte was the guest of his lady friend Miss Eva Witherite Sunday.

The Misses Adalene Shope and Jennie Shirk of Bellefonte attended the Y. P. C. E. on Sunday evening.

Lucy Smover and Eva Witherite did some shopping at Bellefonte Saturday.

Oran Poorman and wife have returned home from Clearfield.

Wm. Garman and little son Spence accompanied by Mrs. Clara Iddings of Bellefonte spent Sunday afternoon at James Lucas.

Woodward.

Alfred Kramer and family from Wolfe's Store visited the gentleman's parents on Sunday.

Some of the visitors in town on Sunday were T. O. Hosterman and family of Millheim, Daniel Neidig and wife of State College, Wm. Wolfe, Jr., and wife, Harris Stover and wife and baby May Belle, James Goisewite and family and J. W. Winkleblech and family of Fiedler.

Jacob Neidig died at his home on Thursday, death was due to paralysis. Had been an invalid for many years. He leaves a wife and two brothers, Dan'l of State College and Gust of Wis. His age was 69 years and a few days. He was a consistent member of the Lutheran church for many years. The burial took place at St. Paul on Monday morning. Funeral services were conducted by his pastor, Rev. Sheeder.

The Evangelical Sunday School will hold their Easter entertainment Sunday evening, all are invited to attend.

Centre Mills

Mr. A. Neese purchased a new set of harness from D. A. Boozer of Centre Hall

Mr. A. E. Corman of this place improved his home by putting a new wire fence around his garden.

Miss Minnie Kline of this place is still holding meetings at Naginey, Mifflin Co., with great success.

Mr. O. Weaver of near here sold a horse to Mr. J. Royer.

DISTRICT JUDGE U. S. COURT

Recommends Pe-ru-na as an Invigorating Tonic.

Judge John W. Bixler, formerly United States Circuit Judge, now United States District Judge, of Kansas, endorses Peruna.

I can unhesitatingly recommend your Peruna as an invigorating tonic, also an excellent remedy for coughs and colds.
JUDGE JOHN W. BIXLER.
1750 P. STREET.
WASHINGTON, D.C.

Pe-ru-na Testimonials.

When any man or woman, out of pure gratitude, writes us a letter, commenting upon the benefits he has received from the use of Peruna, when he does this without any solicitation or remuneration of any sort, and furnishes us a recent photograph, so that his identity and responsibility in the matter is beyond question, then do we consider a testimonial available for our advertising purposes.

We are at the present time publishing many hundreds of testimonials. We give the name and address in full of each one of these people.

We have no use for, nor would we publish for any sum of money, a fraudulent testimonial. To do such a thing would be dishonorable from a moral standpoint, and commercial suicide from a business standpoint.

Tonic and Appetizer.

W. H. Parsons is ex-State Senator and ex-Special Judge of the Supreme Court of Texas, also Brigadier General in Confederate Army. In a recent letter from 925 H St., N. W., Washington, D. C., this prominent gentleman says:

"Upon the recommendation of personal friends and many strong testimonials of the efficacy of Peruna in the treatment of the numerous symptoms of the grip, with which I have been affected for four months past, I have been induced to undergo a treatment of this justly celebrated formula.

"I feel a decided change for the better after using it only one week. It is especially good in toning up the stomach, and has a decided effect upon my appetite. I therefore feel much encouraged that I am on the road to complete restoration.

"My numerous friends in Texas, where I have had the honor to command a brigade of her Veteran Cavalry, in a four-year war, may accept this voluntary testimonial to the merit of Peruna from a sense of obligation for its wonderful efficacy."

Appetite and Digestion Poor.

Mr. Charles Schweiha, Lexington, Texas, writes:

"I suffered from catarrh of the liver. What I ate disagreed with me. I was weak and feverish. I slept very poorly, had rush of blood to the head. I was very despondent, and took no pleasure in anything. My appetite was changeable, digestion poor.

"Your medicine made me well again, for which I express to you my heartfelt thanks. I firmly believe that for all who suffer in like manner it would have the same good effect."

Disordered Liver, Constipation.

Mr. W. O. Clement, Assistant Manager "Rome Georgian," Rome, Ga., writes: "It affords me pleasure to voluntarily testify to the true merits of your wonderful Peruna.

"I have for several years been suffering from disordered liver and chronic constipation, for which I had tried a great many remedies, but none did me any good. My whole system was so thoroughly overcome that I was easy to catch cold and the consequence was that a chronic case of catarrh was fast developing.

"I have been taking Peruna for six weeks and am happy to say that it has had the desired effect. My liver is in good condition, constipation disappeared, and I no longer feel any of the symptoms of catarrh.

"In truth I am now in better health and feel stronger than I have for several years and it is all due to the wonderful effects of Peruna."

Systemic Catarrh.

Mr. Moses F. Merrill, Route 8, Columbus, Kansas, writes:

"The improvement in my health has been wonderful. My bowels are regular as clock-work. I can now eat like other people and my victuals digest completely. I think I am cured of systemic catarrh.

"It has been a hard fight, but I came out victor. Many thanks for your kind counsel and management."

Snow Shoe.

Mr. Thomas Rowe of Karthaus, was a pleasant caller to our town Monday.

Our old friend James Redding, better known as "Rusty" is home spending a few days vacation here. James is looking quite thin.

Milford Martin and Cyrus Sayers of Moshannon were pleasant callers to our town Monday.

Mr. Samuel Haddock, who has been sick for some time is able to be about again.

Oscar Homan is getting some repairing done to his home on Railroad street.

The fellow that writes the Snow Shoe news for the Centre Democrat lives too far out of town, he can't get the borough news.

That little stunt that was in the paper last week about the Snow Shoe items; there is no bot air in Runville as they are too slow to catch cold and also they don't know enough to come in when it rains.

Wm. Starr is getting a new roof on his house in Scotch town. Henry Keck is doing the work.

S. B. Buddinger was appointed Manager of the Snow Shoe base ball team. Sam is an old base ball sport himself and we think there will be something doing in the good old summer time.

We are sorry to say that our little friend Bessie Tobin is sick.

Milesburg

Mr. Arney of Altoona was a guest of his uncle A. T. Boggs last week.

Claude Hall and John Roland of Johnstown are guests of John Hall and family at this writing.

John Jodon will handle the Ceader's ice cream and retail it in quantities to suit his customers.

The Milesburg boro dads are repairing the west end of Market street washout by the late flood also putting in new crossings.

Mrs. Sarah Grubb and Mrs. McClellan Sundayed in Snow Shoe with W. H. Hall and family.

How to Select Easter Eggs.

Here is a short story that will instruct you as to the selection of your Easter eggs.

A shrewd woman, who knows how to drive a bargain, entered a Bellefonte store the other day and asked for two dozen eggs. The obliging proprietor started to count out the eggs, when the customer surprised and puzzled the seller by saying, "I want only black hen's eggs." He informed the women that he was not endowed with the gift of knowing which were black hen's eggs or yellow hen's eggs or in fact what color of hens laid any of the eggs. With a twinkle of the eye, the customer said: "Well I can tell black hen's eggs from the others." "All right," said the man behind the counter, "You pick them out yourself," whereupon the woman proceeded with agility to get all the largest eggs in the receptacle, placed them in her basket, laid down the price and departed, while the merchant looking after her as she departed cogitated on how easily he had been worked. He vows that hereafter he will not allow the color line to drawn in the fowls which lay the eggs he sells. His customers must take them as they come.

That the leading medical writers and teachers of all the several schools of practice endorse and recommend, in the strongest terms, each and every ingredient entering into the composition of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for the cure of weak stomach, dyspepsia, catarrh of stomach, "liver complaint," torpid liver or biliousness, chronic bowel affections and all catarrhal diseases of whatever region, name or nature. It is also a specific remedy for all such chronic or long standing cases of catarrhal affections and their resultants, as bronchial, throat and lung diseases (except consumption) accompanied with severe coughs. It is not so good for acute colds and coughs, but for lingering, or chronic cases it is especially efficacious in producing perfect cures. It contains Black Cherrybark, Golden Seal root, Bloodroot, Stone root, Mandrake root and Queen's root—all of which are highly praised as remedies for all the above mentioned affections by such eminent medical writers and teachers as Prof. Bartholow, of Jefferson Med. College; Prof. Finley Ellingwood, M. D., of Bennett Med. College, Chicago; Prof. John King, M.D., late of Cincinnati; Prof. John M. Scudder, M. D., late of Cincinnati; Prof. Edwin M. Hale, M. D., of Hahnemann Med. College, Chicago, and scores of others eminent in their several schools of practice.

No danger of consumption if you use Foley's Honey and Tar to cure that stubborn cough.

High School Easter Entertainment.

The pupils of the Bellefonte high school have prepared an elaborate Easter program to be given on Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock. It contains a number of wisely selectd orations and will doubtless prove interesting to all to attend. The program follows.

A ROSE BY ANY OTHER NAME.

By J. LUDLUM LEE.

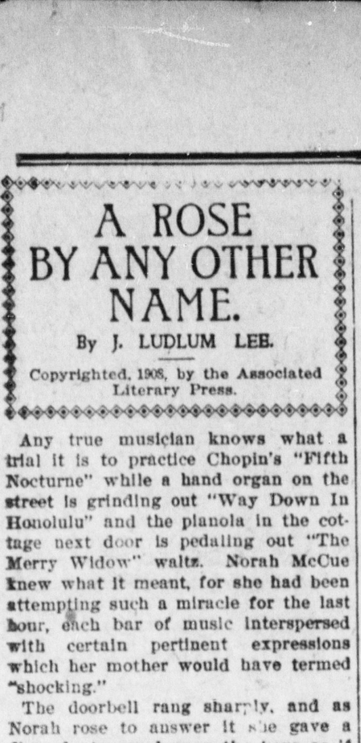
Copyrighted, 1908, by the Associated Literary Press.

Any true musician knows what a trial it is to practice Chopin's "Fifth Nocturne" while a hand organ on the street is grinding out "Way Down In Honolulu" and the pianola in the cottage next door is pedaling out "The Merry Widow" waltz. Norah McCue knew what it meant, for she had been attempting such a miracle for the last hour, each bar of music interspersed with certain pertinent expressions which her mother would have termed "shocking."

The doorbell rang sharply, and as Norah rose to answer it she gave a discordant pound upon the keys as if to illustrate her mood. She opened the door, to be faced with the errand boy from the station, stolidly chewing gum.

"Any of youse White?" he managed to say between the vigorous movements of the jaws.

"White! Of course we're white," snapped Norah. "Do I look like a mulatto?"



"MICK, YOU AND I HAVE DISCOVERED A WONDERFUL THING."

"What's your name?" queried the boy as he began to fumble in his pocket for a letter.

"My name is McCue," said Norah, somewhat curtly.

The boy began to hum. Norah could not recall the air, but its illusive familiarity annoyed her.

"What is it you want, boy?" she demanded.

"I'm lookin' for a gent named White. That's what I want. Does he live here or don't he?"

"Certainly he does not," Norah assured him. "My name is McCue, and I live here with my mother—no one else. Do you understand, you stupid little"—

She stopped abruptly. The boy had begun to sing the same air with words:

"Huge McCue, you mick, you;
You mick, you."

This was too much! Norah slammed the door with great force. It was useless to even attempt to practice now. Her brain was in a whirl of emotions. Ever since last night, when she had quarreled with Josh, things had gone wrong. She would go out and sit in the old apple tree and fight it out with herself. She would climb to her favorite branch and write out that musical exercise for the professor. With a few blank sheets of paper under her arm and clad in a very smart white sweater, she emerged from the side door, sauntered around the yard of the house and climbed up the old ladder that leaned against the apple tree.

She was comfortably seated on one of the upper branches when she again caught distinctly those familiar strains of "Huge McCue," this time whistled.

"If that impudent boy has come back again I'll"— But Norah got no further in her one sided conversation. Instead of a messenger boy appeared a tall, strapping youth, pipe in mouth, a stiff walking stick in hand, followed by a sprightly little Irish terrier. He had stopped and was talking to his companion.

"Mick, you old boy," said the man, "you see that ladder over there. Well, I'm going to smash it in forty pieces. If there is anything I hate it is a silent reminder of things that might have been and happy days gone by."

Mick gave assent by a sharp bark as the man strode up and gave the ladder a vigorous kick.

"How dare you?" came from behind the screen of soft green leaves and pale pink bloom.

The dog pricked up his ears, and the man simulated amazement.

"Mick," he proceeded, "you and I have discovered a wonderful thing—a talking tree."

Mick wagged his tail.

"Brute!" came from the skies above.

"The tree is now addressing you, my dear Mick."

Mick gave several delighted yelps, ran up and down the yard and started around the corner.

"Here, Mick, you," cried his master. "Come back here! I want to talk to you." Then he whistled, and the tune was that of—

"Huge McCue, you, mick, you;
You mick, you."

"I did not choose my name, and I wouldn't take advantage of a woman if I were a great big man," wailed a voice in the tree.

The man curled up at the foot of the tree and leisurely shook the ashes from his pipe and proceeded to refill it.

"What do you think of that, Mick?" he went on. "Here we have found a wonderfully beautiful tree—it must be a lady tree 'cause it can talk—you know ladies can talk, Mick, and sometimes they can say, oh, such nasty things. Well, this tree doesn't care for her name. I don't see that a name matters much. Poets have been fighting that out for years—'What's in a name' and 'A rose by any other name' and all that sort of rot."

Mick's little eyes seemed to search those of his master.

"Now, my name is a very good one, I think—Josiah Frelinghuysen. Rather long and a bit formidable, I admit, but withal a good name; yet, Mick, I give you my word that it was scorned last night. I offered it to a certain young woman along with all my worldly goods, and—well, to put it mildly, Mick, to spare your feelings as mine were spared not, I guess you and I can chum for awhile yet without fear of any interruption from a third party."

Mick seemed to have tired of this soliloquy and had dozed off. Frelinghuysen lighted his pipe and puffed away with an air of satisfaction. The leaves rustled a sigh, and some pink petals were wafted down with the next breeze. Another breeze and then a slipper hit Frelinghuysen on the head. He surveyed it rather critically.

"Rather a neat little foot that, Mick. We will take the slipper home and put it on the mantelpiece, and some day maybe—who can tell?—Cinderella, my Cinderella, you understand, not the one in the fairy book, will come along and claim it."

Frelinghuysen rose and puffed at his pipe. He glanced up in the branches of the tree with his head on one side. A shower of pink petals almost blinded him.

"Eh, little Cinderella," he said good naturedly. "What say you?"

"What say I?" she mimicked. "I say that when a really truly fairy prince comes along I'll go with him and change my horrid name from McCue to"—

"Frelinghuysen," he suggested.

The second slipper hit him dangerously near the tip of his nose.

"Guess you and I better be off to the cover of our family roof, Mick. Things for which we—you and I—have no immediate use seem to be coming our way."

As the tall, broad shouldered form started around the corner Norah relented, and a tiny scream came from the talking tree. Josh went back and once more peered up among the branches.

"Could I be of some service to you, Cinderella?" he said, with a deep bow.

"Josh, you're such an idiot," came from the pink and white screen.

He bowed again.

"And, what is more, I despise you. Yes, I do. I tell you, I despise you."

"This, my dear Miss McCue, is only repeating last night's conversation,' said Frelinghuysen. "May I suggest that you have already made that point entirely clear to me?"

"Well, you put that ladder back against this tree this very instant. I'm coming down," she said.

He picked up the ladder and slowly placed it against the tree.

"And, Josiah Frelinghuysen, do you know what I'm going to do when I get out of this tree and down on the earth? You don't, eh?" she continued. "Well, I'll tell you!" By this time she was on the top rung of the ladder, her skirts gathered in a fluffy mass. "I'll tell you."

"So you remarked," he assented.

"Well, then, don't interrupt me. I'm going to get married. I'm going to change my name, just because I don't like my name. I'm going to marry you, Josh Frelinghuysen, so I am, just for spite."

Descending a ladder in stocking feet to the tune of one's own stinging sarcasm is slow work, and she had now reached the middle of the ladder. It slipped, at least Josh said it did, and Norah landed in his arms. And then her contract was sealed by a method not common in law offices, but which seemed to be quite binding and very satisfactory to all parties concerned, including a hilarious messenger boy. Presumably Mr. White had been found, for the lad leaned on the gate grinning from ear to ear as he sang:

"Huge McCue, you, mick, you;
You mick, you."

Short Ways to Multiply.

Rapid multiplication is always a source of pleasure and profit to the operator and never fails to cause astonishment in those who do not know how it is done. Suppose you wish to multiply two numbers of two places each, such as 65 and 68. The product can be written in one line by inspection as follows: Eight times 5 are 40. Put down 0 for the right hand figure and carry 4. Add 5 and 8 and multiply the sum, 13, by 6, obtaining 78, and add 4. Put down 2 for the next figure and carry 8. Multiply the 6's and add the 8 and put down 44 for the remaining numbers. The product is therefore 4,420. In this case the tens are alike.

The same method may be used if the units are alike, thus: What is the product of 75 times 55? Five times 5 are 25. Put down 5 and carry 2. Seven and 5 are 12. Twelve times 5 are 60. Add 2. Put down 2 and carry 6. Seven times 5 are 35. Add the 6 and write 41. The product is 4,125.

The last illustration might be worked another way since both of the right hand figures are 5 and the sum of the tens gives an even number. In such a case simply write 25 for the right hand figures, and for the remaining figures write the product of the tens increased by one-half the sum of the tens.—Chicago Record-Herald.

Methodists and Amusements.

While the recommendation of the New York conference of the Methodist Episcopal church with reference to the so-called "worldly amusements" paragraph of the church discipline may not be acted upon at the coming session of the general conference in Baltimore, it is significant as showing the changing attitude of the denomination's leaders toward this question. The advisability of eliminating the paragraph prohibiting members from dancing, playing cards and attending the theater or circus, was debated at the last general conference and it was agreed that the time had not yet arrived for such action. Since then sentiment has grown in favor of striking from the discipline what is practically a dead letter. The rule, with its definite "Thou shalt not," has been the cause of much embarrassment to pastors whose young people have simply ignored its injunctions. The impossibility of enforcing the prohibition has been generally recognized. The fact that the vote of the New York conference for the repeal of the rule was practically unanimous is not to be interpreted as ministerial indorsement of the amusements now under the official ban of the church. The ministers realize the difficulty of adapting a set of hard and fast rules of human conduct to ever changing individual conditions and are content to leave the decision to the personal conscience.

If a church is to maintain a specific code of conduct for its members, it is evident that frequent amendments will be necessary in order to keep it measurably abreast of the times. For instance, the Methodist discipline prohibits attendance at horse races, but naturally has nothing to say about automobile races. New forms of amusement are constantly being invented and it would be necessary for the church to pass promptly upon their desirability. It will be interesting to observe whether the coming general conference of this great denomination will take the action demanded by so many progressive members or postpone the inevitable step for another four years.

Deafness Cannot be Cured.

By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

The Things You are Losing.

In our churches there is held a mid-week service, regularly appointed by the authorities. It must have been intended to benefit men as well as woman, but the fact is, only women and a very small proportion of men and boys appear. Is it worth while, or are business engagements to take and keep the first place? It surely is well to consider. How many men in the prime of life, heads of families have been called away from this busy world in a few years in Bellefonte! We have to go, let us make the most of present opportunities.

The women find that after a busy day of home work, the exposition of scripture and the prayer and praise service are helpful, and that the promise is kept of the Head of the Church to meet with even two or three of His people.

Brothers, come and see, "They that honor me I will honor."

The above article was mailed to us by a regular reader and of the sex that is always in the majority at a mid-week prayer meeting. She, like many others, has been strongly impressed by the absence of men at religious meetings of this kind. Her brief but pointed article recalls to mind a story once told by a prominent minister to a congregation where the prayer meeting was almost a ladies meeting, and is as follows: A lady who was always strict in her attendance at all the meetings of the church, always took her son along, to the mid-week prayer meeting as well as the Sunday services. In the spring when a circus came to town Johnny wanted to go and made the plea that all the other boys were going, but his pleading was in vain. Later a second circus came to town and Johnny's pleadings were more earnest than ever and he finally succeeded in getting his mother's consent. Upon his return home his mother asked him about all he had seen. He replied, "Mother, O, mother, if you would only go to one circus you would never go to another prayer meeting as long as you lived."

The conclusion is that the men must look at the prayer meeting in the same light as the little boy.

Life Guards.

The Life Guard's are two regiments of cavalry forming part of the British household troops. They are gallant soldiers, and every loyal British heart is proud of them. Not only the King's household, but yours, ours, everybody's should have its life guards. The need of them is especially great when the greatest foes of life, diseases, find allies in the very elements, as colds, influenza, catarrh the grip, and pneumonia do in the stormy month of March. The best way that we know of to guard against these diseases is to strengthen the system with Hood's Sarsaparilla—the greatest of all life guards. It removes the conditions in which these diseases make their most successful attack, gives vigor and tone to all the vital organs and functions, and imparts a genial warmth to the blood. Remember the weaker the system the greatest the exposure to disease. Hood's Sarsaparilla makes the system strong.

If the reader has a "bad back" or any kidney ill and is looking for relief and cure, better depend on the only remedy endorsed by people you know. Doan's Kidney Pills relieve quickly—cure permanently. Bellefonté citizens testify to this. Here is a case of it:

Mrs. Emma J. Davis of E. Logan St. Bellefonte, Pa. says; I have a great deal of confidence in Doan's Kidney Pills, and have already recommended them in a published testimonial in 1897. I told how I had been relieved of kidney complaint and backache which had kept me suffering for years. Doan's Kidney Pills did this for me when other remedies had failed. Whenever I feel any symptom of my old trouble I send to F. Potts Green's drug store for a supply of Doan's Kidney Pills and it never requires more than a few doses to get me right."

Rheumatism

I have found a tried and tested cure for Rheumatism! Not a remedy that will straighten the distorted limbs of chronic cripples, nor turn bony growths back to flesh again. That is impossible. But I can now surely kill the pains and pangs of this deplorable disease.

In Germany—with a Chemist in the City of Darmstadt—I found the last ingredient with which Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy was made a perfected, dependable prescription. Without that last ingredient, I successfully treated many, many cases of Rheumatism; but now, at last, it uniformly cures all curable cases of this heretofore much dreaded disease. These sand-like granular wastes, found in Rheumatic Blood, seem to dissolve and pass away under the action of this remedy as freely as does sugar when added to pure water. And then, when dissolved, these poisonous wastes freely pass from the system, and the cause of Rheumatism is gone forever. There is now no real need—no actual excuse to suffer longer without help. We sell, and in confidence recommend

A Candy Bowel Laxative
GREEN'S PHARMACY CO.

A Common Mistake

Many women mistake kidney and bladder troubles for some irregularity peculiar to the sex. Foley's Kidney Remedy corrects irregularities and makes women well. Miss Carrie Harden, Bowling Green, Ky., writes: "I suffered much pain from kidney and bladder trouble until I started to use Foley's Kidney Remedy. The first bottle gave me great relief, and after taking the second bottle I was entirely well." Sold by C. M. Parrish.

—Impure blood runs you down—makes you an easy victim for organic diseases. Burdock Blood Bitters purifies the blood—cures the cause—builds you up.

Mr. Wm. H. Anderson, M. D., of Soda Springs, Ida., says that Bees Laxative Cough Syrup has relieved coughs and colds where all other remedies failed. Its gentle laxative effects especially recommended it for children. It is pleasant to take. For coughs, colds, hoarseness whooping-cough. Money refunded if not satisfied. Sold by Krumrines.

Foley's Orino Laxative is best for women and children. Its Mild action and pleasant taste makes it preferable to vilent purgatives, such as pills, tablets, etc. Cures constipation. Sold by C. M. Parrish.

All the Gold IN GEORGIA Could not Buy-

Roding, Ga. August 27, 1906.
Messrs. E. C. DeWitt & Co.,
Chicago, Ills.
Gentlemen:—
In 1897 I had a disease of the stomach and bowels. Some physicians told me it was Dyspepsia, some Consumption of the Lungs, others said consumption of the Bowels. One physician said I would not live until Spring, and for four long years I existed on a little boiled milk, soda biscuits, doctors' prescriptions and Dyspepsia remedies that flooded the market. I could not digest anything I ate, and in the Spring 1905 I picked up one of your Almanacs as a poor emaciated Dyspepsia wreck will grasp at anything, and that Almanac happened to be my life saver. I bought a fifty cent bottle of KODOL DYSPEPSIA CURE and the benefit I received from that bottle ALL THE GOLD IN GEORGIA COULD NOT BUY. I kept on taking it and in two months I went back to my work, as a machinist, and in three months I was well and hearty. I still use a little occasionally as I find it a fine blood purifier and a good tonic.
May you live long and prosper.
Yours very truly,
C. N. CORNELL.

COAL TRAFFIC SHOWS GAINS

Railroad Company Issues Statement Giving Figures

MOVEMENT IS HEAVIER

General Traffic Does Not Show Much of an Increase on the Eastern Division

A COMPARISON WITH LAST YEAR

That there is a gradual increase in the amount of coal and coke being hauled over the Pennsylvania Railroad lines east of Pittsburg and Erie since the first of the year is shown in a statement just issued by the company. Up until the week ending Saturday, April 4, 11,934,375 tons were handled by the company, although this is about 3,000,000 tons less than the amount hauled during the same period of last year.

The tonnage for January amounted to only 2,844,923, which was a decrease of 1,376,427 tons over the same month of the year 1907. The first evidence of an improvement in this direction took place on the week ending February 17, when the tonnage aggregated 928,599 tons, which was the first time that the tonnage exceeded the 900,000 ton mark.

The first time that the tonnage reached the 1,000,000 ton mark occurred during the last week of March, when 1,015,712 tons were shipped. The second best movement made this year occurred during the week ending March 14 when 949,469 tons originated along the lines, and the second best movement made during the first week of the month, when 913,810 tons were moved. This tonnage was distributed as follows: Anthracite coal 97,666 tons; bituminous coal, 686,978 tons, and coke, 129,166 tons.

Although there is a marked increase in the movement of coal and coke, there is a very little evidence in the increase of freight traffic over the Eastern Pennsylvania division.

Paid Damages After Long Fight.

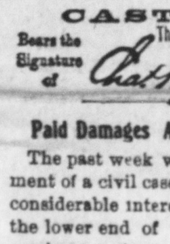
The past week witnessed the settlement of a civil case which has been of considerable interest to the residents of the lower end of Wolf township, Lycoming county. The settlement was effected through the efforts of Erwin F. Hill, Esq., of Hughesville.

About two years ago, while returning to his home outside of Hughesville one stormy night, Isaac Kepner was thrown from his wagon and landed with considerable force in the road, the result of his horse stepping into a sink-hole. Mr. Kepner was badly injured and a suit for damages, with the supervisors of the township as the defendants, followed. In the Lycoming county courts Mr. Kepner through his attorney, Mr. Hill was awarded an amount of $450. The township appealed to the superior court, only to be awarded with a nonsuit. The matter was left in dispute for some time, the township holding off in the payment for so long that it was compelled to pay besides the original judgement considerable interest, together with all costs in the case.

Often The Kidneys Are Weakened by Over-Work.

Unhealthy Kidneys Make Impure Blood.

It used to be considered that only urinary and bladder troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all diseases have their beginning in the disorder of these most important organs.



The kidneys filter and purify the blood—that is their work.

Therefore, when your kidneys are weak or out of order, you can understand how quickly your entire body is affected and how every organ seems to fail to do its duty.

If you are sick or "feel badly," begin taking the great kidney remedy, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, because as soon as your kidneys are well they will help all the other organs to health. A trial will convince anyone.

If you are sick you can make no mistake by first doctoring your kidneys. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases, and is sold on its merits by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also a pamphlet telling you how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. Mention this paper when writing to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

Sally's Knight Errant

By MAY CLENDENNING.

Copyrighted, 1908, by the Associated Literary Press.

"He did smile!" Sally's eyes glowed with excitement and her glance followed the gayly caparisoned horse with its mail clad rider down the crowded thoroughfare.

"Sure he did," she conceded good humoredly. "He'll smile at any little softy he thinks is fool enough to smile back. I'll bet Miss Cady won't be smilin' when she sees how far behind you are with your wrappin'."

Sally flushed as she cast an apprehensive look in search of the dreaded forewoman and bent to her task with nimble fingers. She was one of the fastest wrappers in the room, but ever since the knight had taken to riding by her work had suffered, and Miss Cady, who trusted to Sally to set the pace for the other girls in friendly rivalry, frowned over Sally's piecework tickets at the end of the day.

Until that week Sally had been the record holder for more than a year. It looked as though a girl on the other side of the room would wrest her laurels from her.

Sally only tossed her head indifferently. The new champion could not even see the knight from where she worked, and that to Sally was the important thing.

She was an omnivorous reader of fiction, and the romances of the novelette and the cheaper theaters had filled her brain. When her knight rode past the first time and cast a gallant glance toward the window beside which she worked it seemed to her that the romance of the dead ages was revived again. The grimy factory building became a castle, Miss Cady was her hard hearted jailer and the knight in the street below was her true love and rescuer.

A dozen times that day he rode past the factory on his mettlesome horse, and each time there was the same upward glance, the same lifting up his lance, and Sally's heart beat more rapidly as she bent over the piles of cans which were to be wrapped and stacked in the trays to go to the packing room.

THEN SHE HEARD THE CLATTER OF HOOFS.

That night the knight rode on and on through her dreams. Always the same he seemed to be, and yet ever he grew more glorious in Sally's dreamy eyes as he suffered untold miseries and braved perils innumerable for her sake. He was the hero of "Ivanhoe" and tales of the Round Table. He was of all countries and times, but always he was the man of the day before, and Sally went to her work with eagerness, because she knew that presently the knight would come riding past and that he would look up and salute her with his lance.

And come he presently did. His helmet shone gleamingly in the sun; his chain armor displayed to the best advantage the finely muscled shoulders and set off well against the rich caparisoning of his steed. That there was a theatrical advertisement embroidered upon the trappings of the horse she did not care. She was looking for the silent lifting of the lance and wondering whether the eyes were blue or brown beneath the heavy brows.

She could shut her eyes and remember every detail of face and costume long after he had passed, every detail save that golden legend, "A Knight of Old, the Adelphi," that gleamed against the crimson velvet of the saddlecloth.

She recalled the heavy flowing mustache, with its graceful droop, the clear color of the skin and the ruddiness of the cheeks, and then remembered with distaste Tim Hoiran's stubby, determined chin, with its blue black tinge of clean shaven skin. Tim was already in disgrace because he was out of a job, and when he called that evening the chill reception he received abashed even that self confident young man.

For two years they had been "keeping company," and he had entered with the air of one assured of welcome and with a light apology for the lateness of his arrival, only to be informed that it was a matter of indifference to Sally whether he came or remained away. Presently he slipped out of the little parlor with the optimistic suggestion that Sally would be feeling better on the morrow and that he would try to get around early.

He was unprepared for the snappish declaration that she did not expect to be home at all, and he flung down the stairs in the heat of an anger that rose as quickly as it fell.

Once down the cool street he told himself that Sally had a headache, so he built castles in the air—four room castles in which Sally presided as mistress and to which he came home when his day's toil was done to sit down to a savory mess of corned beef and cabbage with Sally across the table from him.

But Sally's castles in Spain were stately edifices, thronged by knights and ladies, wherein her knight led all the others in beauty, grace and daring. She wondered how she had ever thought Tim Hoiran good looking and shuddered at her own want of taste. She was glad that she knew better now; glad that she had found out before it was too late.

She did not even miss Tim when he failed to call for two evenings, for her anticipations were all centered about the knightly figure on the coal black charger who spent the entire day riding up and down before her window at the factory and who always as he rode gave silent salute.

The girls were held for a couple of hours Friday evening to get out a rush order, and it was late when Sally hurried home. There was a short cut through an unsavory portion of the town, and, unmindful of the leering glances thrown at her, she hurried along, intent only upon getting home to supper as quickly as possible.

She had almost cleared the section when, with a shout, a young fellow lurched out from one of the corner saloons and threw his arm about her shoulders.

Sally screamed in terror, but the men standing in the doorways or lounging on the corner regarded the scene indulgently. Dago Joe probably meant only to kiss the girl, and anyhow he was notably quick with a knife. They were not minded to make it any concern of theirs.

Sally fought as best she could, but the leering face approached closer to hers, and the man's breath beat hotly against her cheek. Then she heard the clatter of hoofs, a whoop unmistakably Irish, and her assailant went reeling across the sidewalk from the force of a smart blow on the head from a club.

With a cry of relief, Sally sprang toward her rescuer. It was her knight, who, turning the corner, had come upon the scene and had charged the Italian with his lance. Now he slipped off his horse and finished off the job with his fists. Only once the knife flashed, slipping through the coat of mail and scratching the shoulder. Then the weapon was knocked from the Italian's hand, and he was done up in approved style until the conveniently nearsighted policeman interfered out of pity for the battered wreck.

Then the knight turned to Sally. His flowing hair had fallen in the gutter along with his glittering helmet. His flowing mustachios hung lonesomely from one corner of his mouth. His eyebrows, too, were sadly askew and blood stained the shirt of mail over the shoulder.

"Come around to the stable until I can put me horse up, and I'll take you home," offered the knight. "I was afraid you would find out I was doin' this 'supe' job until I could get me old place back."

"Is it you, Tim?" gasped Sally.

"Sure," was the sheepish reply. "A fellow offered me $8 to advertise his show for a week. I needed some money to take you to the lady telephoners' ball tomorrow night, and I took him up. I thought you was wise when you threw a kiss to me yesterday."

They were walking toward the stable as they talked, and now Tim led his horse inside. The coat of mail, made of cords daubed with aluminium paint, was soon stripped off and the cut found to be a mere scratch. In a box stall Tim discarded the remainder of his gorgeous outfit and resumed his own well worn suit.

As they passed down the street in the direction of Sally's home she slipped her arm through his confidingly.

"I'm glad it was you and not a make believe knight who rescued me," she whispered.

"It was both of us," reminded Tim. "But I won't be a fake knight arter tomorrow. I'm goin' on the traffic police. The captain likes the way I ride and can get me right through. Now we can get married in spite of my losin' me job."

"I'm glad of that, too," said Sally contentedly as her castle in Spain shrunk to a four room flat.

A Feast of the Pharaohs.

Just in proportion as the Roman banquets surpassed in extravagance modern affairs of the kind, so may the Roman functions be classed as imitations of those of the potentates of the east. We are told that during the reign of the pharaohs the guests would arrive at midday. A slave stationed behind each guest was ready to obey the least command, and time passed quickly in feasting and merrymaking. And when the senses seemed almost satisfied a slave appeared bearing a small figure of a mummy, which he exhibited portentously to the revelers, saying: "Gaze here! Drink and be merry, for when you die such will you be!" One writer says that the proof still exists pictorially that the fair sex of that time and country drank more than was good for them, due to this grewsome stimulation probably, while their lords and masters had frequently to be carried home from a festive gathering limp as the faded lotus blossoms on their fervered brows.—New York Tribune.

Packing Your Winter Clothing?

Then you ought to know of

Red Cedar Flakes

the modern mothecide that takes the place of the cumbersome old red cedar chest and the ill-smelling moth balls.

They are so convenient to use, too.

Each garment can be packed away separately in trunk or bureau drawer. You simply sprinkle Red Cedar Flakes in a fold of paper, then wrap up and put away your garments.

We sell a generous sized package for 15c.; two for 25c. Full directions in each package.

BRIEF MENTION

Short Items of Local Interest Gathered By The Way Side

—The great success of the season, the Academy minstrels.

—No seats for the Academy Minstrels can be engaged by telephone or otherprior to the day of sale when the chart opens.

—True to the weather forecasts the promised rain came on Wednesday and settled the dust as well as giving nature a refreshing —A public reception was given to Rev. Wilford P. Shriner, new pastor of the Trinity Methodist church at Lock Haven Tuesday evening.

—The fifty-second annual session of the West Susquenanna classics of the Reformed church will meet in St. Andrews church at Coburn, May 6—10.

—The barn of the Williamsport Poultry company at Linden was destroyed by fire Tuesday night and five head of horses were burned, together with a large quantity of hay, grain etc.

—During an absence of about ten days at its accustomed place at the Pennsylvania passenger station during train hours, the Brockerhoff house bus has been repaired and handsomely repainted.

—A meeting of the exective committee of the State Grange was held in Altoona Saturday and it was agreed that the next state grange would be held in that city on the second Tuesday of December.

—The Pleasant Gap schools closed a very successful term on Monday under the principalship of Prof. Shuman Williams. The professor is now enjoying a week's vacation and will open a summer normal at the Gap next Monday.

—Charles N. Humphrey, a well known citizen of Philipsburg, died at his home there Tuesday night, aged 74 years. He was prominently identified with the lumber interests in that section for many years. His wife and seven children survive.

—A short time ago the Harrisburg Telegraph asked the question, "What does it cost to keep a hen a year? They are now getting answers ranging from a dollar up to $3.65. A good question for the Bellefonte Poultry association to figure on.

—Harry Ruhl the enterprising barber who recently purchased Harry Otto's shop under the First National Bank has secured the services of Frank Ellis of Williamsport, an expert up-to-date barber. If you want a good clean shave give them a call.

—The Wynn Fire Brick Works, of Blue Ball, were successful in a test applied by the Government to their bricks and as a consequence were awarded a large order for brick, to be delivered to Mares Island Navy Yard, California, which will keep the the works going full capacity until next fall.

—A meeting the Pennsylvania Educational association will be held at State College, beginning Tuesday evening, July 7, and continuing to Thursday evening July 9. There will be accommodations for 1500 and the members of the convention will be given an opportunity of visiting the different parts of the college.

—Paxton Cowdrick has fully recovered from his recent attack of typhoid fever and is enjoying better health than ever before. He is looking forward to a summer of activities in his business, that of contracting. He has houses to build at Howard, Julian, Pleasant Gap, enough to keep him hustling for the entire summer.

—On account of the older persons going to the public school grounds and interfering with the games and plays of the pupils the school board decided that the grounds would be reserved exclusively for the school children. They have posted notices to this effect and hereafter the children will be free to play as they wish.

—Barber G. F. Sasserman has placed a novel and attractive sign in front of his place of business at the Centre County bank. As usual it is painted the patriotic hues, red, white and blue, but the attractive feature is that it is so constructed that the slightest breeze causes it to revolve and the sun shining on the bright colors attracts your attention from a great distance.

—For a wealth of fun "The Arrival of Kitty," which appeared at the opera house Thursday night, furnished all that is claimed for it. The comedy of Col. Bell, the persistency of Billy Brown, and the awful mix-up caused by the imitator of Kitty, as well as other features of the play caused no end of laughter. Throughout it was clean and wholesome and one of the most rollicking and amusing farce comedies that has been presented for some time.

—The next legal holiday is good Friday.

—Joseph Thomas has been appointed constable in the West ward to succeed Wm. Monsell, who resigned.

—The State College base ball season opens Saturday with a game between State and Carnegie Tech.

—Pine street residents had a little excitement Saturday morning when a chimney of one of W. L Steele's houses burned out. The strong wind blowing necessitated watching it for awhile.

—W. F. Eartly, formerly of Philipsburg, but who has been located in Windber for several years, had decided to return to his native county and will open a blacksmith shop at State College.

—Merle J. Winkleblech of Renovo and Miss Gertrude Goodman of Philadelphia but who had been residing at Howard were quietly married at the latter place last Saturday evening.

—A large number of advance tickets have already been sold for the Academy minstrels indicating that the attendance is going to be large. The people of Bellefonte have full confidence in the success of this production.

—It is quite probable that Bellefonte will have another motion picture show. Two young men who are operating in Lock Haven have an option on the opera house and will occupy it a month or two on trial. They expect to open about the last of the month.

—While busily engaged in her household duties Friday afternoon Mrs. Daniel Heckman was siezed with a dizzy spell which caused her to fall to the floor. She fell in such a manner that both bones of the left forearm were broken and the right arm was badly sprained.

—Many people are kept guessing why the prices of meat should go up at this season of the year when eggs and fish are used to a great extent. Many men being idle also lessens the demand for meats and no other explanation can be given than that it is only a hold up of the beef and packing trust.

—While a small boy was fishing near the L. & T. bridge Thursday afternoon Boyd Nolan came along and wanted to show him how to catch a fish. The first attempt he broke his hook and the second time he landed a large German Carp about 20 inches long and which weighed about five pounds.

—Arrangements are now being made for the dedication of the new Bucktail monument at Driftwood, Pa., on April 27th. Col. E. A. Irwin, of Curwensville, Hon. Charles F. Barclay, of Sinnemahoning, and Hon. Emerson Collins will make the addresses, and music will be furnished by the Volunteer Band of DuBois.

—An effort is now being made by the Y. M. C. A. base ball enthusiasts to organize a team and get into the Centre—Clinton league. The Y. M. C. A. boys are made of the right stuff and if they succeed in getting into the league they will be able to win their share of the games and it will take some hard playing to keep them from the top of the list.

—At Monday's session of Court at Ridgway Judge Hall refused to swear in two constables because they had the names of liquor dealers as their securities. The court held that one of the principle duties of a constable was to enforce the law against liquor faithfully and if they were backed by the liquor dealers themselves they would be sure to be influenced in the performance of their duties.

—We have been handed a copy of the Spring number of La Bellefonte, edited and published by Edmond Joseph. This number shows an improvement over former editions. It contains eight pages and is adorned with a neat cover, bearing a cut of the "spring that made Bellefonte famous." A cartoon depict Father Bellefonte in a dream of "fond memories of the past" adorns the pamphlet.

—The entire corps of teachers which have been so successful at the Academy this year will be back next year. An instructor will be added in the mathematical department, who is to be the coach of the Athletic team next year. He is a successful coach and his addition to the faculty will have a tendency to increase the popularity of the Academy athletics. This ought to be good news to the Academy friends.

—The borough of Renovo will hold a special election on May 16 to decide whether or not the bonded indebtedness shall be increased from $25,000 to nearly the full limit allowed by law—7 per cent of the assessed valuation of property which is $986,205 in order to secure funds to improve the water system. An ordinance to the effect was passed at a special meeting of the Borough Council held on Thursday.

—A contract between Bucknell and State College has been entered into by which these colleges will again meet in athletics. The agreement is the result of a series of negotiations extending almost throughout the entire year and meets the unanimous approval of both institutions. The contract covers football games for a period of two years with the understanding that the agreement is selfperpetuating for two years more unless objected to by one or both institutions before April 10, 1910. It fully covers the questions of traveling expenses, gate receipts, eligibility and officials.

—The primary election returns are still reverberating throughout the county.

—The Pennsylvania pay car made its regular monthly visit to town on Monday.

—The Castanea brick works resumed operations Monday after a brief shut down.

—The small boy and the older ones too, are anxiously awaiting the announce of the first circus.

—The Cambria Iron Works have resumed in many departments, giving employment to 1500 men.

—The primary vote was harder to count and harder to get than the returns of the general election.

—The next attraction at the opera house is "The Holy City" which will appear on Tuesday, April 21st.

—New awnings have been placed over the veranda and the writing room window at the Brockerhoff house.

—There will be plenty of time between now and November to study the merits of the respective candidates.

—Mr. and Mrs. Gambel Rice who reside on Penn street are rejoicing over the arrival of a son which was born to them Saturday afternoon.

—The base ball season opened Tuesday with the American and National leagues and interest will now be centered on the great national sport.

—We notice the name of M. Donohue Fifth district Philadelphia nominated by the Democrats for Congress, we wonder if it is our former citizen Mortimer who was at the Valentine Furnace so long.

—The engagement of Joseph Rittenger and Miss Annie Krulstki has been announced. The groom is employed at the Bellefonte Furnace Company. The girl is a native of Austria and is on her way to this country now.

—The Nittany furnace fires were banked Monday evening for an indefinite period, pending a better demand for iron and the opening of the lake navigation. It is hoped that this shut down will be of short duration.

—We notice in the list of nominations for delegates to the Republican National convention the name of W. H. Keller of Lancaster, who is undoubtedly the brother of our townsman and attorney Harry Keller.

—Friday being a holiday, Good Friday, the post office will observe the usual holiday hours. Early morning collection and delivery will be made. Office open from 10 30 to 11 a. m. and from 7 to 8 p. m. Lobby open all day.

—For some unknown reason an Italian committed suicide at Scotia last Saturday. His wife and friends refused to have anything to do with the corpse, so it was cut down and given in care of Undertaker Naginey for burial.

—Bellefonte was represented at the play "Just Out of College" in the auditorium at State College Monday evening by a fair-sized delegation. Some went on the regular train, some on the special, while others drove or went in automobiles.

—Theodore P. Ryndor tenders his deepest thanks to those who in voting for him sustained the principle of the State paying the school tax, and assures them he will continue to make all honorable efforts to secure that great measure of justice.

—Arrangements have been made whereby Adjt Gen. Stewart, Major Gen. John A. Wiley and the higher officers of the guard will inspect camp sites at Gettysburg next Tuesday, following the meeting of the state armory board. This is taken to mean that Gettysburg will be selected for the next division encampment.

—The reception accorded the dramatic company "Just Out of College" on their arrival Monday morning was characteristic. About 300 students met the train and began calling various hotels to the number of a hundred or so and reach for the grips. Some of the members of the company were scared at first until they began to see the joke when all was taken in good nature.

—Last Friday John S. Saxton of Lock Haven, assistant superintendent of the Prudential Insurance Co. was in town and made out the claim for the insurance carried by the late Miss Clark. On Monday the check for the full amount of insurance was received by the local agent, A. G. Waite who promptly turned it over to the bereaved father. An instance of the usually prompt payment of claims by that company.

—Numerous complaints have been made by persons who put up posters and various advirtisements that they are soon torn down by thoughtless persons. Asin rule these posters and bills are put up with the consent of the owner of the property and no one has a right under the law to tear them down. After they have served their purpose it makes no difference, but we have seen them torn down the same day they were up. Furthermore they are put up for a purpose and should not be destroyed or torn down by those who are unconcerned.

"The Holy City."

To Clarence Bennett, producer of most powerful dramas, should be given the credit of giving to the city of Lockport last night one of the most inspiring plays seen here in a decade. In his awe-filling play of the Holy City he has brought to life for stage use Nicodemus Mary Magdalene, Joseph of Arimathea, Peter, Elizabeth, mother of John, John the Beloved and others. In his play dealing with the dark fearful times leading up to the crucifixion of Christ, he gives them a most wonderful portrayal. It is therefore no wonder that a very small audience sat for three hours last night so still in their amazement that they could hear their hearts beat.

The play deals with the love of Salome, the wanton shameless daughter of Herodius and Herod. for Marios, a young Roman soldier, who hears St. John the Baptist preach at the River Jordan in first act, and thenceforth becomes a disciple of Christ. Salome in her abandon tries to destroy his new beliefs with a love and passion. Failing she dances wildly before her drunken father Herod and he grants her wish for the head of John the Baptist on a platter. The dance of the Seven Veils as it was called in the sensational operatic production of Salome in New York last winter, was beautiful last night, for Mr. Bennett has evidently tried to remove the brazenness of the New York production and at the same time preserve some part of the dance of that period. He has succeeded well without offending the taste or sense of morality. The denunciation of Salome by Maurius anent her dance and her storm of invectives against him were well enacted. The removal of John's head from the platter by his mother and her curse of the reveling Herod were also powerful.—Union Sun, Lockport, N. Y.

Bellefonte May Get State Highway.

It is rumored that a survey will be made soon for a state highway through Bellefonte. The proposed new highway will begin at the section built last summer between Bellefonte and Milesburg continuing through Linn street to Allegheny thence to Bishop street and east through Bishop street to the borough line. The property owners on Allegheny street should make an effort to have that section of the street paved, should the state decide to build the highway. The additional cost would be small and ultimately would be a saving.

Our Mailing List Corrected.

The mailing list of the Bellefonte, Republican has been corrected to April 14, 1908 and all who paid their subscriptions prior to that date will find proper credit given by change of date on their lable.

We feel very grateful to the many subscribers who hove responded to our call, but there a good many who are back over a year.

Sudden Death at Howard.

W. A White of Howard who has been making his home with W. H. Thompson since the first of April died suddenly Friday forenoon. Mr. White arose and made the morning fire and dressed Mr. Thompson's children, and while he was helping his wife to wash dishes complained of a pain in the breast. He became very ill and went to bed, his death ensuing a few minutes later, about 9.30 o'clock. Death was due to apoplexy and heart trouble.

William Alfred White was born in the state of Maryland on Sept., 21, 1854. He came to Howard about 27 years ago and was employed at the furnace at that place for many years.

He later secured employment as a section hand on the Bald Eagle Valley railroad and was assistant foreman when he quit work several years ago on account of a serious trouble in one of his legs which member was amputated to save his life. Since that unfortunate affair Mr. White had been working at the shoemakers trade and was preparing to go to the home of his daughter Mrs. Elmer Schenck at Boalburg in the near future.

The deceased was a member of the United Evangelical church of Howard and was always found in attendance at the services. Surviving him are his wife Anna R., and one daughter Mrs. Jillie Schenck of Boalsburg, two brothers and three sisters.

Funeral services were held in the Evangelical church Monday forenoon at 10 o'clock. Rev. W. W. Rhoads officiated and interment was made in the Schenck cemetery.

Sunday School Anniversary at Coleville.

Thirty or more children and some adults of Missioner Crittenden's Bible School at Coleville gathered in the house of John T. Bilett, at half-past two Sunday to celebrate the second anniversary of the schools existence. The exercises were held in a private house because, at the last minute, those in charge of the only church building in the village conveniently "lost the key." It was a trying and disappointing situation for brother Crittenden who lives and labors for adults and children of all classes regardless of denominational differences, but he met it in the christian spirit which has characterized the whole of his long life. The previously arranged program was carried out almost to the letter. The children read responsively the appointed scripture lesson, sang with earnestness their appropriate simple songs and waved the palm leaves, with which they had been provided in honor of the "King of Kings and Lords of Lords."

In his address, Missioner Crittenden said it was the first Palm Sunday service he had ever conducted during the forty-five years of his Bible School labors in this part of Pennsylvania.

The report of the Secretary showed that the aggregate attendance during the year was over three hundred and ninety, that all expenses had been paid, and that there was a balance in the treasury. After a brief address by Rector Hewitt of the Episcopal church each child was presented with a picture card and went away with palm leaf and picture card in hand to testify to the good work of brother Crittenden among them

Local Option Encouraged

Sufficient returns have been received from Saturdays primaries to show that the candidates pledged for local option were voted down in many districts. In a few of the counties such as Montour, Snyder, Tioga, Potter and Somerset, the anti-saloon sentiment was strongly developed and each of these counties will probably be represented by one or more local option men in the next legislature. In such counties as Allegheny Berks, York, and Lehigh the saloon vote was overwhelming. Indications are that the local option representation in the next legislature will be small but militant and already the anti-saloon force are rallying. The leaders declare that the success in a few districts was encouraging and that a good beginning has been made.

To Proiect Postcards.

As a result of numerous complaints of postal and post cards being defaced by the postmarking, the Postmaster General has ordered discontinuance of the postmarking of cards at the office of addressed.

The post card fad has reached enormous proportions and the new ruling is expected by postal officials to be received with delight by the thousands of collectors.

The Hospital Conference.

Miss Anna McCoy and Miss Christine Merriman are going to hold a concert in the court house on Thursday April 23, and are making every preparation to insure it a success. They will be assisted by the Woman's Auxiliary to the hospital It is expected that there will be a full turnout of the citizens to assist in this cause. The special efforts being made on the part of these ladies should be encouraged by the support of the people.
